LET us treat our defeated political enemies kindly. The Democrats were, in the main, mistaken while the Prohibitionists erred on the side they supposed to be right.

THE store of McGee & Mahaffey at McGee's Mills, Clearfield county, was entered by thieves the other night, and about two hundred dollars worth of goods were carried away.

THE owner of a dime museum in New York has written to Lord Sackville, offering him $2,000 a week for holding two levees of two hours each every day in his museum.

BISHOP FOSS, who will be present at the dedication services at Dickinson Seminary in December, received a royal welcome from the Philadelphia Methodists Thursday night.

DURING the past three years there have been 207 new camps of the Patriotic Sons of America organized in this State, of which 112 were organized during the year ending August, 1888.

THE store of A. Bergner at Beech Creek, Clinton county, was destroyed by fire last Friday afternoon. One room was occupied by the postoffice. Bergner had $2,000 insurance on stock of goods.

MISS DOLLIE and Minnie Himes, two young ladies of Mount Union, Huntingdon county, have cut and shocked over 1,500 shocks of corn this season, earning $30. They were not compelled to do it, but had a desire for healthy recreation and pure love of the fields.

ON Thursday a monument was dedicated to the memory of John Siney, the once famous labor leader of the anthracite coal region, at St. Clair, six miles from Pottsville. It was erected under the auspices of the Knights of Labor and the Miners' Amalgamated Association.

THE Chinese merchants in New York city have received notices from their home offices in China to discontinue the purchase of petroleum, white sheeting, all kinds of calico, watches, firearms, ginseng root, and flour, from America sources, as they are being severely boycotted in that country. The exclusion policy is bearing fruit.

JACOB PLUFF, at Hyner, Clinton county on the 31st ult., shot and killed three bears and trapped one. He first shot a cub, after which the mother rose straight up on her hind feet and came at him. He fired again and killed her; then he killed another cub, and after these achievements proceeded to his bear trap and behold! he found a big fellow in the trap. This he captured, making four bears slain by him in one day.

WHAT OF FRANCE?

Forebodings of troublous scenes lower around the horizon of the French Republic. True, no striking nor immediate menace of her peace exists at the present time, but conditions within and without her borders are adverse to her wellfare, and prestage misfortune to her. A sagacious political writer sums up the present position of that Republic as follows:

Politically she is divided into many factions, among the leaders of each of which are self-seeking demagogues who plot, scheme and labor for their own agrandizement, rather than their country's good. Each faction is jealous and distrustful of all the others, and neither has the confidence of a majority of the people, nor hardly of a respectable proportion of them. In consequence of this condition, the national government is weak though the present is a time when France needs all her strength, and to have her people united and her government conducted by wise and streng men.

There appear to be no great Frenchmen now. Mediocrity seems to be the highest standard reached by any of the present statesmen of France, and she has scarcely a single general whose fame extends across the Atlantic sufficiently to make his name familiar to newspaper readers in this country, if Boulanger be excepted. As for him he has done nothing to either justify or satisfy the expectancy which centered in him a year ago, in his own country, in Europe, and in America. He is in no sense a great man, and the fame which it was predicted he would achieve has become mere notoriety and of that kind not wholly enviable. His highest conceptions seem to be devoted to methods for producing a dramatic effect, or a transitory sensation. His intellect is of too light a weight and too small a calibre to fully provide remedies for them.

The French nation is languishing for a great leader; a man who can unite her distracted factions, obtain and hold the confidence of his own country, and command the respect of others, Frenchmen treading upon German soil are subjected to humiliating restrictions; many leading French journals are prohibited from being circulated across the German frontier; the French foreign office is in a continual state of dread and suspense lest diplomatic coalitions may be affected which would work disastrously to the interests of France; and looming above all other causes of anxiety is the ever present and plainly recognized danger that some ambitious but unscrupulous and incompetent man may make an attempt to establish a dictatorship. And yet France, under her present government, is powerless to protect her citizens abroad, to prevent or redress insult, or establish internal tranquility and confidence.

The fact is, the French race is deteriating. Its social corruption has sapped its vitality. Physically, Frenchmen have become inferior, and were the warfare of the present age dependent for its results upon bodily prowess rather than the appliances of science, they would be the weakest race in Europe, numbers considered. Were the strong man to appear for which France yearns, it is doubtful if he could find material in the nation out of which to construct anew the superstructure of her former glory and power, which have probably passed away for ever.

A YOUNG German of New Haven, Conn. saved the life of a daughter of a wealthy New Yorker in 1884. The father died a few months ago and left the young man $15,000, on condition that he should marry the girl. A dispatch from New Haven states that the young man has been debating whether to accept or refuse the legacy ever since, but last week left New Haven, after annonncing to a chum that he intended to go to New York and marry the $15,000 girl. He had been paying attention to a young lady in New Haven for some time, but he has evidently jilted her.

THE law of New York prohibiting the deadly car stove went into effect on the 1st instant. There are difficulties in the way of enforcing it. It is the only law of the kind in force. Railroad managers are preparing to comply with it as fast as they can by taking steam from the boilers to the cars. The New York Central is nearly complete in this respect. A great impediment is the want of uniformity of couplers. What are our friends of the Pennsylvania road doing?

The Very Latest from Non-Partisan Authority.

Special to the Daily News.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7, 1:10 p. m.—Reports coming in very meagre. The democrats have carried the Solid South together with New Jersey and Connecticut. California, Colorado and Indiana doubtful, balance of the northern states carried by the Republicans. Harrison undoubtedly elected; he has carried the state of New York by 10,000 majority.

Hill, Democrat, elected Governor by 9,000 majority.

Entire Tammany ticket, headed by Hugh Grant for mayor in New York City, elected by 25,000 majority.

American Press Association.

P.S—A private telegram received at 12 o'clock to-day gives Harrison 4,000 majority in Indiana.

THE representatives of the Chinese, Persian, Corean and Japan nations in Washington are indulging in an interesting rivalry in giving entertainments. They are all rich, though the Chinaman is the richest, but the Japanese Minister has the advantage in the fact that he has a charming wife, who is making great headway as a favorite in Washington. The representatives of these heathen nations are not slow at learning the civilized ways of Christian nations, and as they progress it is known that our exceeding wickedness quite confounds them.

PRESIDENT-ELECT Harrison.

MR. MILLIKEN GIVES US THIS ANSWER.

It was a great victory. Never before in the history of our country has a political party in power received such a defeat and such a rebuke. The Republican party has defeated a rebellion, abolished slavery, overthrown the doctrine of free trade, proclaimed the manhood and the dignity of the laborer and pledges assurance that he shall be protected. The future prosperity, greatness and independence of our country no one can now estimate—let all rejoice who love this country.

Very truly, yours,

JAMES MILLIKEN,

RED SUNSETS.

The long looked for report of the scientific commission which investigated the great volcanic eruption of Krakatoa in 1883 has at last made its appearance, and it seems strongly to confirm the theory that the famous "red-sunsets" of that time were caused by the canopy of dust and steam thrown up by that tremendous convulsion of nature. So great was the explosion of the burning mountain that the noise was heard over one-thirteenth of all the total surface of the earth. At Batavia, thirty miles away, buildings were wrecked by the concussion. In Ceylon, two thousand miles away, a sound as of heavy guns was heard. At Rodriguez, nearly three thousand miles away, it was distinctly heard, like the roar of distant artillery. The sea wave caused by the upheavel was perceived as far away as the English Channel while a great atmospheric wave swept three times from Krakatoa to the antipodes and back again. Fully one and one-eighth cubic miles of rock were hurled into the air, some fragments reaching a height of 31 miles, while an incalculably vast cloud of dust and vapor filled the air at a height of from 17 to 23 miles. It is not difficult to believe that enough of this dust and vapor was wafted to this side of the world to produce the beautiful phenonema that were the wonder and delight of every observer of the sunsets.

AN Illinois Central Railroad official collected 15 people at a highway crossing to see a sign put up, and a train went past. Next day six people swore that the train whistled, three were doubtful and the other six swore that it didn't. As a matter of fact it did, but the official wanted to show how easy it is for honest men to go into court and swear to a misstatement.

A DOUBLE CANAL.

A new scheme is suggested by John H. Smith, manager of Dun & Company's agency, Buffalo, for utilizing the current of the Niagara river.

Mr. Smith is one of the principle men in an association formed to pay $100,000 for the purchase from the inventor of the best plan for harnessing the current. His plan is to cut a parallel or double canal through Grand Island, which lies in the river between Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

The island is some eight miles long and over six miles wide, so that there is plenty of room for carrying out Mr. Smith's ideas. His scheme is, first, to build a wide canal from the head of the lower end. This would be closed at the lower end by gates. Another canal or raceway would be built to carry away the water which would rush from the high level when used with turbine wheels, in flumes between the two. For eight miles there could be a continuous line of factories, all operated with water power. The lower end of this island is six feet below the upper, and this, Mr. Smith believes, would give a sufficient power.

Said Mr. Smith to the reporter: "The head of Grand Island is almost in line with the city line of Buffalo, and the parallel canals would run north from there. My plan is to cut a canal of any desired width, say 100, 200 or 300 feet, from the head to the lower end, where it would be closed with gates. Then open another and narrower canal, the reverse of the big one, that is closed at the Buffalo end, to carry off the waste water. The difference in levels would give sufficient power. You would then have eight miles of water power and eight miles of water front, for the large canal could be navigated."

Questioned about the expense, Mr. Smith said it would not be so great as would at first appear. There would be no rock to excavate; it would all be soft digging. A narrow channel could first be made and the current turned which would carry off all the soil dug out in widening the channel to its necessary width. The system could be duplicated several times on the island.

The suggestion was made that the fall might not be sufficient. Mr. Smith said that would be no reason why the idea should go to waste. The plan could be used by building a fifteen mile canal and raceway around the city from the Southerly side, starting at Lake Erie and emptying into the Niagara river. This would give a fall of twelve feet, and be a great thing for Buffalo and her manufacturing interests.

THE election proclaims in thunder tones that protection must always be the policy of this country.

PARIS is about to have cabs introduced there by Englishmen. We are not certain they are Americans who will do it, although Lord Shrewsbery is the head of the enterprise. The more Americans visit Paris the greater are the opportunities for enterprises they see in bringing that gay city abreast with the rest of the world. It is more than likely that the city will sometime become an extensive field for American enterprises.

"And he you in a pinafore, no doubt, Daisy."

"Have you seen him since he came home?"

"No; but mother has, and says he is a very good-looking young fellow. I'm sorry he is going back to the Colonies so soon; they say he is very well off already."

"Well, we must make the best of today. I suppose it's to be a regular family gathering on purpose for him. Now come along, and don't talk any more; that must be our train, I'm certain."

The speakers formed a group of as pretty and fresh-looking English girls as could be seen anywhere. Notwithstanding their resolve, they continued to talk, when they had reached the little country station, to which the winding lane had led. Subdued laughter mingled with their musical chatter, and caused several persons to remark on their evident holiday aspect. And now the train had really come puffing and snorting in, and the taking of tickets, looking out for good seats and all together, commenced, when one of the merry party cried out:, "What is Laura doing? Look, she is actually running down that hill again. Stop her, mamma; she'll lose the train!"

Yes; surely that is Laura Bellew, perhaps the prettiest of the group, and with a refined sort of beauty. She is quieter, too, and more thoughtful looking, with an expression on the youthful face (for she cannot be more than seventeen at the most) as if life were not only a Summer holiday; but all this is not observable just now, for all we can see is flying feet, and streaming ribbons and muslin, till a small crowd of boys is reached. And now the mystery is explained, and Amy exclaims, in a horrified voice: "Oh, dear, if there isn't a wretched animal—a dog—that those boys are going to drown! How provoking! We shall never get Laura now. Can't anything be done?"

"How tiresome! Laura, Laura, come—we're all waiting!"

"And the train won't wait! May, there's the bell. What shall we do?"

"We must go," decided Amy, the eldest. "Whatever Laura chooses to do, don't go after her, Alice, or you'll miss the train, too." But Alice had already gone some paces, and was near enough to implore Laura to come back.

"It's not a bit of use," she called. "If the boys mean to drown that wretched cur they'll do it; really it doesn't look worth saving. Do come, dear! The day will be spoiled without you. Come, Laura, and don't stop a delightful day,s pleasure—Cousin Charlie's picnic, too—all for an ugly dog! I don't suppose the boys are cruel; and, after all, if they are, it's not your business."

For one moment Laura hesitated. Turning, she saw the party of girls still on the platform, beckoning, calling,and waving their hands. The guard, too, seemed to be calling, and a porter was running toward her. To a young girl a picnic on a sunny Summer day is no light temptation,and there were special reasons why this picnic was so interesting, and the idea of being thought silly, eccentric, and unkind to the others is not a pleasant one. She turned the other way. The boys and their victim were already moving away. The poor dog gave one look as he was dragged away by a bit of dirty rope around its neck, and to Laura that look was enough; her resolve was taken.

Good-bye she cried hastily. "Go back, Alice; my love to all. I'm not coming with you," and she resolutely followed the boys, who had been starting, only half comprehending what it was all about. Now, however, they seemed inclined to quicken their pace, as if fearing that they were going to be deprived of their fun; so that when the party of girls were at last safe in the train, and the long-suffering guard had sounded his whistle they could see nothing of their companion or the boys. They soon regained their spirits, and thought no no more of Laura, after a few contemptuous remarks on the folly of interfering with others, instead of minding one's own business.

We will leave them to their thoughtless and, perhaps heartless gaity, and follow Laura, who believed she was minding her own business in caring for a dumb, helpless, and suffering animal; and not only minding her own business but doing God's work, for He is the God of mercy.

On overtaking the boys—a work of some difficulty—she tried to persuade them to give up the dog to her by every means in her power. Unfortunately, however, she had no money in her pocket, and when the urchins discovered this she could get nothing from them but: "We're a-goin' to drown the dawg; he ain't no good." And when the poor creature, instinctively recognizing a friend, tried to get near her, they savagely jerked the cord, making him utter a piteous whine that went to the girl's heart. What could she do, since promises and threats seemed alike useless? Meanwhile, they were all slowly nearing a river, to which the boys were evidently bound.

In another minute the biggest of them, an ill-looking lad, seized the dog in his arms, to throw him in; Laura made one bound, and caught him by his ragged jacket' the dog at the same moment giving a frantic struggle, and almost escaping. With angry looks and words the whole party gathered around poor Laura, threatening to throw her in with "the dawg" if she didn't "stop that game," and again the poor victim was held aloft.

The next instant something unlooked-for happened. The big boy was on his back the others dispersed like a flock of frightened sheep, the dog free, and a young man, with uplifted cane, standing over the prostrate boy as he called out:

"Catch the dogs, Miss Bellew!" No need for that: the loving grateful heart in the poor, gaunt, shaggy frame carried it straight to his preserver. Crouching down at Laura's feet, he licked her hands, and his dark, speaking eyes tried to show all he felt.

After a few sharp strokes and a stern warning, the culprit was allowed to follow the gentleman who had so opportunely appeared on the scene joined Laura, who now it was all over, was trembling with excitement.

"You must let me help you now,' he said. "What will you do with the poor beast? He is yours body and soul, and evidently intends never to leave you."

"I must take him home," said Laura "and I shall be very glad of your help. You have been so kind"

"Kind, indeed! And what were you! And how about the picnic?"

"May I ask your name," said Laura, smiling at him, "since you seem to know so much about me."

"You may, indeed. I think we ought to be great friends, for it seems to me we have both lost the delights of this picnic."

"What do you mean?" cried the girl, looking up with a bewildered look in her violet eyes. "Who are you? You cannot be——"

"But I am—that very Cousin Charlie for whose special delectation the picnic was destined. And now don't you feel very guilty, Cousin Laura?"

"Guilty?" repeated Laura, still perplexed.

"Well, you know, you are responsible—entirely!"

"I don't know what you mean, Mr. ——I mean Cousin Charlie,if you really are my cousin—but anyhow, I can't feel guilty, or anything, but thankful, when I look at this poor waif."

"Waif! That will do for his name, but not poor now. Did you ever see a dog look happier?" And, indeed, he was showing by ecstatic wriggles, and every dog-like means, his joy and gratitude. And then, as the three slowly proceeded home, Charlie Bellew, the Colonial cousin, related at his leisure, and with many interruptions on Waif's account [for the young fellow was in no hurry for the walk to come to an end while Laura's bright eyes showed such interest in his tale] how he happened to be at the little station unnoticed by the girls, who none of them had seen him since he was a boy; how he had heard much of their talk, or, at least, enough to know who they were; how he had witnessed Laura's adventure, and finally decided to join in it.

"You must come in and see mother," said Laura, when they reached her door, "and help me to get her to like my dear Waif."

"She must do that; he is so fond of you. And do you know. Cousin Laura I think when he is combed and brushed, and fed up a little. he won't be a bad looking dog.

So Cousin Charlie went in, and Mrs. Bellew had to hear the story, and was delighted to welcome her nephew. She could not say she admired "Waif," but she gladly welcomed him, for it was from her mother that Laura first learned lessons of humanity and love of all God's creatures. Charley stayed, and a pleasant afternoon was spent, "Waif" being the chief subject of conversation and interest.

And how about the picnic? Well, the party came home in due time very tired, and, it must be confessed, a little cross.

"Well, Laura," Amy said, "you missed nothing. It was a stupid affair; and do you know after all Cousin Charlie was not there at all."

"Waif" became a true and faithful friend to his mistress. I need not say to any one who understands dog-nature but I can tell my readers that a time came when he had a good master as well as a good mistress. As Charlie remarked this was quite fair, as the master had a share in in the rescue! He was also heard to say, more seriously that, never had his darling wife's face looked more beautiful than when it was lit up with pity for a poor dumb brute, and with righteous indignation for cowardly cruelty; and from that moment he knew in his heart that such a brave, tender, loving woman was the wife he wanted.

BURDETTE'S ADVICE.

Bob Burdette gives the following advice to the young voter:

My son, you will cast you: first vote for President this November. I don't want to influence your vote. I don't want you to vote for a man just because certain other men do. I want you to sit down and think about it before to be able to give a reason for your vote I want you to go to the polls in good company. As a young man of progressive ideas, I want you to be abreast of the world and head and shoulders with the times when you walk up to the polls. I want you, on entering politics, to align with the party which has the purest,most progressive record. I don't care a cent my boy whether you are Republican or Democrat. There are honest men, patriotic citizens, good Christians in both parties. Only I don't want to see you walk up to the polls and cast your first vote with the party.

That upheld human slavery as a divine institution.

That bought and sold men, women and babies like so many mules.

That fired on Fort Sumter and the American flag.

That for nearly five years fought to destroy the Union.

That opposed the issue of greenbacks when the government was fairly perishing for the want of them.

That organized mobs and riots to oppose the draft.

That swept American commerce from the seas with armed privateers.

That polls its heaviest majorities in the most vicious and ignorant precincts.

That is strongest in the states where the percentage of illiteracy is the greatest.

That has opposed every liberal and progressive measure of legislation during the last quarter of a century.

That was the defender of slavery.

That is the defender of Mormonism.

That slandered Garfield; and

That assassinated Lincoln.

Now, as I have said before, my son, I don't care whether you are a Republican or Democrat. Choose for yourself. Just keep away from the crowd whose record I have very briefly outlined. Find the party to whom the record belongs, and then forever keep away from it. You need not be particular with which party you unite if don't join that one. Always vote about right. I am a Republican, but I will shake hands with fraternal love with any Democrat who votes against that record. That kind of a Democrat is always a good enough Republican for me.

P. S.—I have never found that kind of a Democrat

Cornmeal Waffles.

Put a pint of boiling water into a sauce-pan and stir into it sufficient dry cornmeal [about two-thirds of a cup] to make mush. Litt cornmeal in your left hand; allow it to pass slowly between the fingers into the water, while you stir quickly with the right hand. Let the mush cook slowly for twenty minutes; then add two ounces of butter, and a dessert spoonful of salt, and stand aside to cool. When cold, separate four eggs; and the yolks to the mush; then add a half pint of buttermilk or sour cream. Now stir in gradually sufficient flour, about one pint to make a thin batter. Dissolve a half tea-spoonful of bi-carbonate of soda in a tablespoonful of boiling water, and add it to the batter. Stir quickly the well-beaten whites of the eggs, and they are ready to bake.

MULLEIN FOR CATARRH.

From the New York WITNESS.

Some one wishes to know through the columns of the Witness how to prepare mullein leaves as a remedy for catarrh. Dry the leaves in the oven; pulverize them by rubbing them in your hands; pick out the stems; put in a clay pipe and smoke, letting the smoke go through the nostrils. I had catarrh for a great many years, and spent a good deal of money for different kinds of medicine, but nothing helped me as much as the mullein. I began by smoking two pipes full three times a day.

ROMANCE OF A CONVICT.

Pardoned Prisoner Becomes a Wealthy Merchant.

GOVERNOR CURTIN AN ANGEL OF MERCY—A STRANGE RECOGNITION.

[Pittsburg's Penny Press.]

In one of his happy, story-telling moments this summer, at Bedford, Ex-Governor Andrew Curtin, referring to the pardoning power possessed by him during his term of office, and how earnestly he endeavored to exercise it with justness and impartiality, related that upon one occasion he was making a journey by rail, and stopped off at a certain place which he would not name, but where, he said, one of the State Penitentiaries was located, to personally interview one of the prisoners who was an applicant for pardon, as he could not make up his mind from the papers presented to him whether the convict was worthy of pardon.

He visited the Penitentiary and asked the Warden to admit him to the cell of the prisoner without informing the prisoner who he was. This was done, and the Governor talked with the man who, not knowing his visitor, soon let the Governor see that he was guilty and in no manner deserving of pardon, but trusted to his friends' influence to get him out. The Governor, of course, was disgusted, and explained to the man that he was Governor Curtin, and that he had satisfied himself that the prisoner was better in prison than out of it, and left him in any thing but a pleasant state of mind.

As he was leaving the prison to take his train one of the wardens said:

"Governor, we have a man here who is an unusually good prisoner and a splendid workman. He has been here for some time, but his term is not nearly completed. He seems to have no friends, but he is too good a man to remain in prison. Will you see him and talk with him?"

The Governor had but a short time in which to get his train, but something seemed to call upon him to make the visit, and he consented.

A PENITENT THIEF.

As in the previous case he went into the cell without letting the occupant know who he was. The man was a fine looking fellow of about twenty-five years, and after a little conversation he explained that he was in for burglary; that he had been very young when the crime was committed, and that while he had been well brought up at home he had drifted into bad company and was led into this trouble by men much older than himself. He told a good story and seemed truly repentant of the crime, and the Governor believed him.

"If you have such a good case as you say you have, young man, why do you not have your friends ask the Governor for a pardon?" he asked him.

"Sir," he replied with tears in his eyes, "I had but one friend—my mother—and this trouble of mine has killed her; she is dead."

The Governor was deeply affected, and inquired of him about his work in the prison, and what he would do if he should be set free.

"It is useless for me to think of getting out of this. I have no friends," he said. "But if I were out I would work at my trade. I have made myself an excellent workman—have learned my trade here—and if I were out, where I could work for myself, I would make my way, and live an upright and industrious life. Yet it is hopeless. I have no money even to buy clothes, when I should put off this striped uniform."

PARDONED BY THE GOVERNOR.

"Young man," said the Governor, "you are free, I pardon you, and I shall see that you get clothes."

Then man was overcome and could not believe his good fortune, and did not until the Governor a few days later sent his pardon and a $25 suit of clothes which he paid for himself.

The Governor lost track of the man after that for a long time, being worried and harrassed by State affairs for it was during the war, but finally his health became poor and physicians ordered him to Cuba. A gun-boat was sent to Philadelphia to take him on his journey. The Governor's friends tried to dissuade him from such a dangerous trip. His capture by the rebels was feared, but he went to Philadelphia and the night before he sailed he slept in the Continental Hotel.

Great crowds came to see him and to say farewell, and even so late as that tried to persuade him to remain at home. He sailed, however, and upon his return, some time later, the first person to greet him on the dock, with tears in his eyes, was the ex-prisoner, who welcomed him home most earnestly.

"Why, my young man," the Governor inquired, "why how do you come here—what are you doing?"

He then told him he was a prosperous business man; that he had worked at his trade after he had left the prison, until he had become foreman of a large establishment in Philadelphia, and that he had saved money and was well off; that he had been most anxious about the Governor, and when he was going away on the gun-boat felt that he might lose his only friend before he could tell him how he had kept his word; that he had watched on the mat in front of his door all the night previous to the Governor's departure, and had even tried to go on the gun-boat to be near him and help protect him in case of trouble.

The Governor was much pleased, naturally, and after that, when ever he went to Philadelphia, his ex-convict friend always called upon him, and they became quite intimate.

A FRIEND TO THE GOVERNOR.

Upon one of the Governor's subsequent visits to Philadelphia the man invited him to come to his house and see his wife.

"Wife!" shouted Governor Curtin. "Stop there! Before I go, young men, tell me, have you married some young woman and deceived her as to your past? If so, our acquaintance ends here."

But he had not deceived her. He had told her all The Governor, much pleased, went to his house and met his wife—a lovely woman too, he said, and very happy. They lived in a fine brown stone house, had carriages and horses, and every thing money could buy. He told the Governor that he then owned his business and was a millionaire. This was only ten years after he had been pardoned, but he had been successful in everything he had undertaken.

A few years later a daughter of Governor Curtin lost her husband, a gallant officer, who left an estate somewhat incumbered and but little ready money. The Governor about this time received a visit from his ex-convict friend,whom he had noteseenfor some time,andhe was surprised to have him tell him all the circumstances of the death of his son-in-law and the facts about his incumbered property. The Governor expressed his surprise,and the kind fellow told him that he had made it his business to keep posted about every thing in connection with the Governor and his family, in hope that he might some day repay him for his kindness to the poer convict. "And now," he said, "I want to square off this mortgage." The Governor was much moved at this point of his story, as can be imagined. Here was the poor, friendless convict whom he had pardoned now offering a helping hand to one of his benefactor's children.

The Governor refused to permit him to do as he proposed—in fact, forbade him to do so. But some days later a gentleman called upon his daughter and gave her a legal paper releasing her late husband's property from all incumbrances. The man was a stranger to every one, and to this day they have been unable to discover who he was, except for the suspicion the Governor has of his ex-convict friend.

"Who is he—what is his name, Governor?"

"His name! My God, man, do you think I would tell it? I have never breathed to a living soul his prison name, and he has lived such a straight forward, honest life that none suspect his past, and will never know it unless he runs for office—and then let him look out. But I have warned him about that and I guess he is safe,as he has already declined to be a candidate for any thing.

White Chapel Murders.

Sir Charles Warren has writen article for publication explaining his failure to catch the White chapel murderers. General Warren insinuates that London is practically under mob rule and that Mr. Gladstone encouraged it. These are his words:

"It is to be deplored that the successive Government have not had the courage to make a stand against the more noisy section and have given way before the tumultuous proceedings which have exercised terriorism over peaceful and law-abiding citizens; and it is still more to be regretted that certain ex-cabinet Ministers, while in opposition, have not hesitated to embarrass those in power by smiling on the insurgent mob. There can be little doubt that the outcry against the police as a militaty force instigated for political or sinister purposes is due to the Englishman who poses as the censor of public bodies, and who possesses, as a rule, but one idea at a time."

This refers to Mr. Gladstone, and will create great indignation among his followers when the article is made public The article is a general weakening on General Warren's part, and he now even asserts that the police might be reduced if all London will resolve itself into a vigilance committee.

Sir Charles also accuses the reporters, who have done more to solve the mystery of the crime than any one else, with hampering his work. He makes camparisons of London with the French and Continental police, but ignores Superintendent Murray's force, as he is very sore about the New York criticisms on him.

—Cooney Yarger, a resident of Poe Mills, says he saw two large meteors fall from the sky recently.

A Substitute for Sugar.

New York Mail and Express.

Saccharine, the new substitute for sugar, which was discovered a few years ago by an eminent German scientist, is said to possess the property of sweetness to an extraordinary degree. Since its discovery those interested have been striving diligently to reduce the cost of its production, in order to make it commercially useful. The latest information reports a partial measure of success. A factory has been erected looking to its production on a large scale. Whether it will ultimately replace sugar is not known. Experiments have shown that it is harmless when taken internally and there appears to be nothing in the way of its use upon a large scale except its cost. It will, however, not be necessary to produce it at the same cost as sugar, since its sweetening power is much greater than that of sugar, so that one pound of the substitute will effect the same amount of sweetening as twenty times its weight in sugar. On the other hand it is asserted that saccharine has no nutritive properties, and for that reason can never take the place of sugar as a food, but it will meet with a warm reception by the medical profession, who can prescribe it for patients suffering from kidney trouble, in which sugar is strictly prohibited.

"Enjoyed your party, Bobby?" "Oh, awfully!" "Well, what little girls did you dance with?" "Oh, I didn t dance. I had three fights down stairs with Willie Richardson; and I licked him every time."

Mr Benson: "How many watermelons do you suppose you could eat at one time, Uncle Zeke?' Uncle Zeke: "Dunno, Massa Benson. I eat fo'teen one night, but my wife'd died dat arternoon, an' Uncle Zeke warn't in fust-class condition."

A "fad" among fashionable young men is to have an embroidered bug on the trousers above the knee. The young men who adopt the fashion should also have a boot-toe worked into their trousers above the knee and back of it—somewhere in the region of the hip-pocket.

Many people think teetotalism is all moonshine, but if they would only try it, they would find it nearly all sunshine.

"Are you engaged to Miss Eclat?" "No, not exactly, but when I asked for her hand she gave me the refusal of it."

Teacher: "Miss Ingenue, will you please give us an example of capillary attraction?" Miss Ingenue: "A handsome mustache."

"I see that a new word is called for to describe railroad accidents," remarked Spacer; "the word 'telescope' is not considered appropriate." "Isn't it," replied Timan: "then how would collideoscope do?"

Irate wife: "This is a nice time of night for you to be getting home!" Aggravating husband: "Yesh, ver' nice, Beautiful moon (hic) light; no perambulators on street; everything (hic) nice 'n quiet."

Stout old lady (to druggist boy) "Boy d'ye keep a preparation for reducin' weight?" "Yes'm." Stout old lady: "Well, I don't know eggsactly how much I ought to get." Boy (diagnosingly,): "Better take all we've got, ma'am."

Dealer (to clerk): I'm going to mark those boys' diagonal suits $15 to-morrow." Clerk: "Fifteen dollars! Why we've been selling them for $10 all along." Dealer: "I know it, but I'm going to give away a base ball bat with each one of them free of charge."

Mrs. Mills was asked how she managed to get along so nicely with Mr. Mills, and frankly replied: "Oh I feed him well. When a woman marries her happiness for a little while depends on the state of her husband's heart; after that it's pretty much according to the state of his stomach."

"And don't you know, Johnny," said the minister, who was dining with the family, why your mamma doesn't want you to eat a second piece of pie?" "Yes sir," replied Johnny, "she said if I didn't eat a second piece, and you didn't eat any, there would be enough left over for to-morrow."

I was getting measured for a suit of clothes this mawning," said young Mr. Sissy to his pretty cousin, "and just for a joke y'know, I awsked Snipen if it weally took nine tailors to make a man. He said it would take more than nine tailors to make a man of some people. I thought it was quite clevah."

Livery-stable Proprietor to Young Man: "What made the horse run away?" Young Man: "A cow jumped out of the bushes by the road and frightened him." Livery-stable Proprietor! He's a small horse. Couldn't you hold him?" Young Man: "Yes, but I couldn't hold him and the girl too."

—The largest and most enthusiastic political meeting in Eagleville this campaign was held in that place on Thursday evening. The handsome and commodious hall was crowded to its utmost capacity. The Beech Creek and Eagleville bands were present and enlivened the occasion with their very best music. Addresses were made by John G. Love and James Hamill, Esqs., of this place.

Daring Feat of a Moonshiner.

Atlanta Constitution.

Dock Cockburn, a moonshiner from Murray county, escaped from the Custom House yesterday at the peril of his life.

About 3 o'clock he was sitting in the little prisoners' room on the third floor in a group of moonshiners.

The door was locked.

All at once Cockburn sprang to his feet and went to a small window which overlooks Marietta street at a height of 100 feet.

He raised the sash, and stepping out on the granite coping, which is hardly six inches wide, and straightening himself against the side of the building, with his face to the wall, moved slowly along the perilous path.

The slightest mistep would have hurled him from his dizzy height to the flagstones below—a mangled mass?

The coping extended to the balcony, a distance of about ten feet.

He made the trip in safety, and, raising his left leg with the greatest care stepped over the stone wall of the balcony, walked into the hall, down the stairway and got away.

The court was in session at the time, but Cockburn was not missed until an officer happened to look into the little room to see if the prisoners were all right.

Of course no one dreamed that any sane man would dare death in the attempt to tread the coping of the balcony.

Cockburn is the same man who, in 1893, jumped from a car window near Marietta while the train was making thirty miles an hour, rolled down an embankment, and made good his escape into the woods.

He is 29 years of age and weighs 186 pounds.

Dock has been brought to law a number of times and he feared a heavy sentence—so he risked his life in getting away.

METHOD does not mean as many suppose the way a thing is done; but the laws or principles which dictate a way. There may be many ways of applying a method, but there can be only one method—the right method. In our schools every teacher has a way or method, or, more properly speaking, a way of applying a method. And there are many factors which enter into the way a method is applied, the teacher's temperament, the pupil's characteristics and mental powers and the subject to be taught. Individual teaching is the only true teaching and the term applied in any other sense is a misnomer. We do not mean this in the sense of personal instruction, but in the application of the subject taught to the classified faculties of the mind. One pupil can learn in one way, another in a different way, and unless teaching is varied so as to meet the wants of different mental faculties it must fail. Every pupil should be given a fair chance, and it is the grossest injustice to put one in the same grade with another and teach both in precisely the same way, because no matter how their mental powers may differ they must be classified. The attempts of Old Procrustes to make all human beings of one stature physically was perhaps more cruel but scarcely less hurtful than the efforts to make all children measure up to the same mental stature. Be sure to vote for Fryberger and Allison.

A CINCINNATI woman has made a will in which she provides that her two china dogs shall be separated and each one placed in a box, one box to be put on the grave of her beloved husband and the other on her own grave. One does not know which to wonder at most—the touching but kindly meant cruelty which parts the china dogs, or the tender thoughtfulness which provides a suitable monument to the husband of such a woman,—Chuck in a vote for the Republican ticket.

People Pay Heavy Bills

For medicinal attendance and medicine. Sickness is expensive, and those with small incomes feel this burden keenly. The physician must sometimes be called but he is not needed one-tenth as often as many think. What is required is a family medicine; one that will relieve and cure those ailments which are liable to come at any season and to attack both sexes and all ages. Amid the host of articles that are offered to the public for this purpose nearly all are useless or worse than useless. It is no vain boast to say that the medicine herein mentioned is of a very different character. What it has done is known to multitudes of persons whom it has cured of weary and painful diseases. It has saved time, money and many dear and precious lives. Now please understand that as the life is in the blood so disease and death are in the blood. Get the poison out of the blood and life and health at once return to every part of the body. Dr. Brown's Sarsaparilla does this work quickly and surely through its direct and positive action upon the stomach, bowels, kidneys, liver and skin. For all waste and corrupt elements must be cast off by means of these channels. Rheumatism, scrofula, bronchitis, gout, consumption, malaria, catarrh, hay fever, all skin affections and eruptions are diseases of the blood.

Mr. George H. Wish, of the firm of Thaxter & Wish, Bangor, Me., was afflicted with a scrofulous humor which caused troublesome sores upon both his legs. Many remedies were used and several physicians consulted, without success. After taking Brown's Sarsaparilla a short time he was better, and soon the eruptions disappeared and he is now all right. This is only one of a thousand victories gained by

Soap at the "Eureka!"

(The Romans considered soap to be a Celtic invention). This well known material, according to Pliny, first become known to the Romans by their conquest of Gaul. There are some notices of it in the English version of the Bible, but it is believed that the words borith and nether, there rendered soap, really mean potash and soda.

In this country and in the northern part of Europe, Hard soap is made from tallow, cotton seed oil, palm oil, bone greese, and kitchen fat, by boiling the solution with caustic soda. The only other ingredient of consequence is rosin the residuum of the distilation of rough turpentine. There have been numerous patents taken out for improvement in soap making, some are excellent but many and perhaps most of them, are more for the purpose of cheapening by the addition of various articles to soap in its semi fluid state than of improving its quality. There are soaps that are used for medicinal purposes, but as we do not deal in that particular kind we will not speak of them at this time. Of the soaps to be found at the Eureka Grocery we can mention a long list and all of them are good for the price. Among those which sell the most readily are Buffalo soap manufactured by R. W. Bell & Co. of Buffalo, New York. Of course the manufacturer says it is the "best in the market," and in our own judgment it is a good article, it sells for five cents a bar.

Then there is the Atlantic German, also a five cent bar, manufactured by the same firm and well worth the money.

Also the "Excelsior," a five cent soap by same manufacturer.

The Ivory and Oline are soaps of a higher grade, they are good but have been so much advertised that we need not dwell on them at length. One of the most popular soaps we have is the "Tom, Dick and Harry." This soap is put up in packages, three cakes in a package and sells for ten cents, a little over three cents a cake, and every cake is as large as the ordinary five cent cakes. The manufacturer says This soap is made from the finest selected material. It is especially adapted for Laundry, kitchen and general Household Use. It is guaranteed to be perfectly and absolutely pure.

"It will float."

It will wash in hot or cold water. It makes the clothes perfectly white and clean. Being based upon an entirely new discovery, it is the cheapest and most economical soap ever made.

We will add that if the above is absolutely true it is indeed a cheap soap.

One evidence that it is good is the fact that it sells, and the buyers come again for it week after week, those who use it tell us that it is a very good article. We sell Hundreds of packages of this soap and have about half a car load now on the way to supply present needs. We never knew until we got into this business that the people of Centre County used so much soap; we are confident now that all are trying to keep clean, that the war against dirt is carried on vigorously every day by our people.

To return to five cent soaps we will mention, Floating soap, Besion, Lenox Hector, Bon Voyage, Babbitt, Mechanics Pride, a floating tar soap especially adapted to the use of Mechanics of all trades, it is "death on dirt."

Just here we will speak of Grandpas Wonder soap of which the Mechanic's Pride mentioned above is a counterfeit, and like all imitations is of course not as good as the original THE first is a five cent article, the last costs two times as much. The first is recommended by its makers to be as good as the last, yet the first is sold to the retail merchant so he can sell it for half the price of the last and make more money on the sale. The first however we consider well worth the price asked for it, the last is as good as can be, a good article for Machinists, Engineers, Firemen, Foundry men, Miners, Coal Handlers, Printers, Painters, Farmers, &c It will make the skin soft. Will cure chapped hands. Will remove dandruff. Will keep the hair from falling out. Will remove tar or greese from silks or woolen fabrics. It is a vegetable oil soap. Lathers freely in the hardest water.

We will now speak of SOAPS FOR CLEANING METALS. We have Days sand soap, an excellent article for scouring. It has a large sale, of course it scratches for it has sand in it, but the Daisy soap for brightening metals is The Modoc. This is truly a wonder in this particular. We have tried its merits and it is first class, but good as it is we do not think it will brighten up a tarnished character. The manufacturer says it is the only combined soap cleaner and polisher in the market.

Why you should use it!

1. Because it works easier, quicker and better on Paints, Varnish, Fine surface work, tal n muirF immings, Gold, Silver, B ase Tin, N kel plate without scratcors, injuryi than any other compound ever manufactured,

2. Because it is a splendid Toilet soap, leaving the skin soft and smooth.

3 Because it is best and cheapest for general household use and for all purposes.

One word more on soap and we are done. There was a great rush of soap agents last week and just as we thought the supply was exausted who should pop in on us but J.C. Weaver with a bar of soap in his pocket manufactured at Erie, Pa., by the, elder Swalley, the father of our friend who so lately occupied the position of secretary to the Y. M. C. A. here at Bellefonte. According to Weaver this soap just "takes the cake;" there is nothing like it in the market, it is called "Sea Foam" and they who wash with it will become "whiter than snow," yes, "whiter than snow." We are not so sure that this will not wash a blackened character pure and white. After we got over our surprise at seeing our friend Weaver in the soap business we gave him an order for soap. We are satisfied that those who see this soap will be pleased with it. It is a beautiful article for the toilet. At the Eureka we have everything as well as soap, all kinds of groceries fresh and new.

New goods received every day. Call and see our stock.

MASON & HAMLIN

The cabinet organ was introduced in its present form by Mason & Hamlin in 1861. Other makers followed in the manufacture of these instruments, but the Mason & Hamlin Organs have always maintained their supremacy as the best in the world.

Mason & Hamlin offer, as demonstration of the unequalled excellence of their organs, the fact that at all of the great World's Exhibitions, since that of Paris, 1867, in competition with best makers of all countries, they have invariably taken the highest honors. Illustrated catalogues $22 TO $900. free.

ORGANS

Mason & Hamlin do not hesitate to make the extraordinary claim for their pianos, that they are superior to all others. They recognize the high excellence achieved by other leading makers in the art of piano building, but still claim superiority. This they attribute solely to the remarkable improvement introduced by them in the year 1882, and now known as the "MASON & HAMLIN PIANO STRINGER," by the use of which the greatest possible purity and refinement of tone, together with greatly increased capacity for standing in tune and other important advantages.

PIANOS

A circular, containing testimonials from three hundred purchasers, musicians, and tuners, sent, together with descriptive catalogue, to any applicant.

Pianos and Organs sold for cash or easy payments; also rented.

THE RUM TRAFFIC.

The rum traffic largely necessitates the existence of the almshouse, the house of correction, court and jail. A government of the people, by the people and for the people cannot long exist or be perpetuated on a drunken basis. Government is instituted and upheld for the common good. Every subject of that government has a right to claim from it protection and security against the violation of its rights. The direct and inseparable consequence of this traffic is to violate the most sacred rights, to sunder the bonds of society and bury in everlasting forgetfulness the duties which the dearest relations of life impose. There is not a tie which binds man to his fellow-man that has escaped the deadly grasp of the rum power. Like a mildew of death intemperance rests on the Republic. It is an incarnate monster. It raises its hideous, defiant form directly across the pathway of aggressive moral reform, corrupting morals, fomenting crime, blunting the sensibilities, staying the progress of reformatory measures and sapping the source of the peace and prosperity of the nation. There is no good word or work that does not suffer from the traffic in intoxicating liquors. There is no vice nor wrong in our land which is not aided or abetted by it; and, inasmuch as all government is by universal consent, to protect and promote the best interests of society, and is so distinctly specified in the opening sentences of all our States as well as of our National Constitutions; therefore the only consistent attitude of any well constituted government towards a monstrous evil which fatally antagonizes all the best interests of society is that of condemnation, suppression and ultimate and entire prohibition. The sale of intoxicating liquor should be prevented, and the manufacture of them prohibited by the most stringent laws.

This we believe is the opinion of nine-tenths of the people, and it could soon be accomplished if men would work together and select for legislators and judicial positions those who are known to favor temperance legislation. But as long as mere notoriety is all that is desired, and the success of the temperance movement is made a matter of secondary importance, the liquor men will retain the immunities they now enjoy. Put in a vote for Ryder for Congress.

VOTE for protection.

IN speaking of the West affair the St. James Gazette says that England is not exactly prepared to send iron-clads to Long Island over it. We are very glad to hear she isn't, for if she were there isn't a city on the Atlantic, Gulf or Pacific coasts that could save its bacon. Our splendid navy that Secretary Whitney boasts about is made up of paper and wind and futurity. The other day a vessel was needed badly by the Government to send to the relief of the fleet of whaling vessels caught in the ice of Behring strait, and not one accessible in the Pacific ocean was found to be able to go on even this very peaceful mission. If Great Britain should consent to be insulted we wonder what this Administration would do anyway? Go to the polls and vote for Harrison.

TURKEYDOM is all in a flutter of excitement, as the President has signed the death warrant of a million or so of its members. Only twenty-some more days, vain gobbler Hamlet of the Thanksgiving play, to strut the earth and stun the eyes of the groundlings with your proud appearance, when, zip—off goes your head. Allison should have your vote.

FAILING to get sufficient cars for their use from the railroads the association of coke producers has decided to build 1,000 cars of its own. Coke-making in Western Pennsylvania is a great and growing business.

THE rumor that a New York banker has absconded with $10,000 is probably untrue. No self-respecting banker would demean himself by carrying so small a sum out of the country. Hand over a vote to protection.

A MINE HORROR IN CLINTON COUNTY.

Fourteen Men Killed and Several Injured on Saturday by a Premature Explosion in a Coal Mine.

The following account of a terrible disaster which occurred on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at Cook's Run, Clinton county, is from the Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin, of Monday:

"A telegram was received in this city at 6 o'clock Saturday night stating that a terrible disaster had occurred at Cook's Run, Clinton county, in the mine of the Kettle Creek Coal and Mining Company. The dispatch, which was from Superintendent George L. Miller to J. C. Russel, stated that the explosion occurred in the new drift, and that a number of men had been killed. Later dispatches brought to light the fact that the explosion had been accompanied by a frightful loss of life, no less than fifteen men having been killed outright, and several others seriously injured.

The accident occurred about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when a dull, rumbling report was heard. Superintendent Miller hurried to the scene, and upon arriving at No. 2 mine found that the explosion had occurred there. Prompt assistance was summoned, and air was immediately forced to the face of the works. As soon as practicable men entered the mine, and feeling their way along the grimy passageways into the drift, met a terrible scene. Dead bodies were lying around convulsed and distorted by their dying agonies. The scene was a terrible one to gaze upon. The corpses were lying around in every direction. The rescuers gave immediate attention to the wounded, who were writhing in their torture. The search revealed six injured, one of whom died soon after being removed, and it is feared that one or two more will die. In an hour fourteen dead bodies had been recovered.

Samuel Killinger, Patrick Donnelly, Michael Curran and J. Carlston were the only English speaking men among the killed, the others being Italians and Hungarians.

Prompt attention to the injured was given, Dr. Weymouth, of Renovo, and Dr. Brennan, the mine physician, doing all in their power to relieve their sufferings. Undertaker Beck took charge of the bodies, and prepared them for burial. Two or three who were in the mine escaped miraculously.

J. Farrel, a driver, was entering the drift at the time of the explosion. He was thrown violently towards the mouth, but strange to say was not hurt. The mule that he was driving was killed. The force of the explosion may be imagined when it is stated that several of the bodies were blown clear out of the drift.

The general theory is that in making a blast a gas feeder was struck, filling the space with gas, which, coming in contact with a naked lamp caused the explosion. It was one of these things which no one could foresee, and no blame is attached to any one. By a gas feeder is meant a pocket of gas imbedded in the coal, which as soon as a pick is struck into it, escapes and explodes.

The mine inspector was immediately telegraphed to, and was expected to arrive on the first train. The Coroner of Clinton county was also summoned to hold an inquest. The general talk among the miners is to the effect that the ventilation was good and the mines were well supplied with air appliances.

The general officers of the Kettle Creek Company are located in Williamsport, Captain David Bly being the President. The mines have been operated since last spring, the coal mined being bituminous.

Information received yesterday was to the effect that seventeen men in all were dead. All arrangements had been perfected for the funeral of the victims which will take place to-day.

A special says that among the rumors is one that the explosion was caused by the inexperienced use of dynamite, a hundred sticks of which were purchased by an Italian, but who was unable to get a fuse and it is supposed he tried to set it off in some other way. Wesley Smoke and John Aaron Anderson were badly injured but will recover."

Coroner Mader, of this city, went up to the scene of the disaster to-day and the mine inspector was also looked for. A surveying party yesterday found the body of a naked man fifty feet from the air hole.

There are fourteen men laid out all lying close together, in the blacksmith shop at the mines, and two are with their families. They are burned so bad that they are beyond recognition. Undertaker Beck went up with sixteen coffins last night which nearly filled the baggage car.

There were no less than two hundred people at the mines yesterday and a number went up on mail this morning. An inquest is being held this morning. Three will be buried at North Bend tomorrow afternoon and eight at Drury's Run. I got the report from the superintendent of the mines. It is impossible to get the names. There were Swedes, Hungarians, and Irish. One man was shot seventy-five feet up through the shaft and there were clothes out on trees on the top of the mountain. The owners of the mines went up on mail this morning.

Death on a Hand Car.

From a private correspondence received by R M Anderson, this city, from Hopeville, Bedford county, on Friday, says the Altoona Mirror of Saturday, information is at hand that a terrible accident occurred on the Sandy Run Branch of the Huntingdon and Broad Top Railroad yesterday. Fourteen of the employes of the road were coming down from work on a hand car guided by Wm. Stull, when the forward wheel broke and with awful results.

The occupants of the truck were scattered in every direction. Some of them were picked up forty feet away from the track. Samuel Hastings was caught and wound up in the wheels. He was instantly killed. Maher Zeth, the mine boss at Sandy Run, had his skull literally crushed in by the shock of the fall. He lived until evening when death came to his release. Samuel Knight and his brother Lana, were terrtbly cut over the body and Samuel had his arm broken in three places. Nicholas Stevens was so badly cut and bruised that his sufferings are something awful. He may not live. Daniel Swisher had his back severely hurt.

A second car truck, following the first, was signaled just in time to prevent a fearful crash. George Cartwrigh, who escaped from the first truck, signaled it just in time. When those who were upon the second truck came upon the scene they were simply horrified at the frightgful picture before them. They tenderly picked up the victims of the accident and conveyed them to Sandy Run, where they were properly cared for.

—The sermon on "Amusements," delivered by Rev. W. H. H. Snyder, in the Reformed church, on Sunday evening, deserved a more extended notice than we could give it on Monday. It was decidedly in favor of all innocent and harmless amusements. The vital questions seem to be, Will the amusement indulged in be beneficial or harmful? Will the result aid us or hinder us in our lives? If the amusements will really benefit us, they not only may but should be indulged in freely. He touched on the subject of novel reading. Novels should be read only as a recreaticon, and then only the better kinds. The reading of sensational romances results in more evil than anything else. The individual who eats only dessert cannot grow strong and healthy and yet it is very good after substantial food has been partaken of in sufficient quantities. He said that the home must be made the brightest place on earlh. There should be games and other diversious for young people. Never look with a glance of half-dissapproval at the games of children. Some of the most eminent men who ever lived were cited, who at the busiest and most important period of their lives, came to their homes, forgot the harrassing scenes of the day and engaged with their children in sport. Outdoor sports were referred to in words of encouragement. A gymnasium was alluded to as a necessity in every town and he said there should be one in connection with the Y. M. C. A. of Bellefonte. He also advocated the establishment and maintenance of a circulating library. In brief, his sermon was full of wise and timely advice and suggestions.

The most beautiful complexion can only be possessed where there is pure blood. Laxador will renovate the blood, and remove impurities.

THE block system, as it is now termed in railroad parlance, is simply the division of a railroad in to a certain number of what are called telegraphic districts, the distance between which is determined by the amount of traffic, and each block station has signalling instruments by which the signal man can communicate with the box on each side of him. Now, when a train enters any block a semaphore signal is lowered, and no train is allowed to follow until the one in front has reached the end of the block when the signal is raised and at the same time lowered for the block ahead, etc. The block systems in use in Europe and in this country generally employ device for lowering and raising the outdoor signal, but these, it is thought, will eventually be replaced by automatic advices.

Water Rights.

Water rights have been a source of great trouble and much agitation to people living along the margins of streams. The Legal Adviser, in an exhaustive article on the subject, gives much information which will be new to most people. According to the writer, it is a general principle that every owner of land bordering upon a natural stream of water has a right to use the water for any reasonable purpose not inconsistent with a similar right in the owners of the land above, below and opposite to him. He may take the water to his dwelling, to irrigate his land or to quench the thirst of his cattle; to use it for manufacturing purposes, such as the supply of steam boilers or the running of water wheels or other hydraulic works, so long as such use does not sensibly and injuriously affect its volume. But this, it is noted, is a mere privilege running with the land, not a property in the water itself.

When the stream is small and does not supply water more than sufficient to answer the wants of the different proprietors along the stream, none of the proprietors can divert the water from its regular channel for purposes of irrigation or manufacturing; but for domestic purposes and for watering stock one proprietor will be justified in consuming all the water if he needs it. Twenty years use adverse to the right of another will give the person so using the stream the right to continue such use, regardless of other's rights. As to the division of water, everyone owning land situated upon the border of a stream has the following rights:

1. To the natural flow of the stream.
2. That it shall continue to run in its accustomed channels.
3. That it shall flow upon his land in its usual quantity, natural place and usual height.
4. That it shall flow off his land upon the land of his neighbor below, in accustomed place and at its usual level.

These rights he has as an incident to the property in the land, and he cannot be deprived of it by grant. If any one shall make any change in the flow of a stream, to the material injury of any owner situated upon it, or by any interference shall prevent the stream from flowing as it was wont to flow, he is responsible for the damage he may occasion. These rights are subject to the privilege of each one to make a reasonable use of the water upon his own land, while it is passing along the same. It matters not what the source of the water may be, whether it be back water or flowage of the same, or the waste of another stream. Still the diversion of a stream may be made by any one if it returned to its natural channel before it leaves his premises.

A Sound Legal Opinion.

E. Bainbridge Munday, Esq., County Atty., Clay Co., Tex., says: "Have used Electric Bitters with most happy results. My brother also was very low with malarial Fever and Jaundice, but was cured by timely use of this medicine. Am satisfied Electric Bitters saved his life."

Mr. D. I. Wilcoxson, of Horse Cave, Ky., adds a like testimony, saying: He positively believes he would have died, had it not been for Electric Bitters.

This great remedy will ward off as well as cure all Malarial Diseases, and for all Kidney, Liver and Stomach Disorders stands unequaled. Price 50c. and $1. at W. C. Kepfinger & Co's.

A COAL strike in England is possible that will throw out of work 240,000 men and boys representing, with their families, quite 1,000,000 people. The object of the proposed strike is to secure an increase in wages of 10 per cent, this corresponding to the redution in wages that was made three weeks ago. Such strikes over there are very much like our own. The miners allege that there has been an improvement in trade that warrants an advance; to which it is replied that there has been no increase in selling prices and no advance is practicable.

Some Foolish People

Could they be induced to try the successful medicine called Kemp's Balsam, which we will sell on a positive guarantee to cure, they would immediately see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial size free. At all Druggists'.

Gen. Grant on Guard.

It was a drizzly day, only a short time before General Grant drove the enemy from Petersburg and moved toward Five Forks and Appomattox, says the Hartford Post. A chill northeast gale made overcoats comfortable even there, and more men who could wore them than left them off.

A sentinel down toward the river, near some storehouses, shivered as he strode to and fro on his post, his gunlock under his arm to keep off the wet. He was a raw recruit from "Down East," sent out to help fill the ranks of a regiment which had lost one-half of its men since the campaign began,

He saw a man in a regulation overcoat and with a slouch hat, but with the steady carriage of a veteran, passing along a few rods away, and he called out to him:

"Say, friend, have you any terbacker in your clothes?"

The passerby was smoking a cigar. "No," he replied. "I can give you a cigar, but I don't chew."

"And I don't smoke, but I'm starving for a chew," replied the sentinel, as he looked over to the other wistfully. "An' I chew but dasn't smoke on post. Say, couldn't you stand post a minute till I run over to the sutler's yonder?"

"I could," said the other, with a grim smile on his face, and then he added: "I will. Give me your gun and orders."

There isn't no order, only to hail anybody going anigh them stores, and to stop 'em as has no business there."

So the sentinal, relieved of his post, hurried to the sutler's for the desired tobacco. Returning promptly, he took his gun and quietly said:

"If I get a chance I'll do as much for you, friend. What regiment be you in?"

"Not any. I belong to headquarters."

"What, to the General's guard? What's your name?"

The quiet looking man puffed out a cloud of smoke and said: "My name is Grant."

"Great Jerusalem!" gasped the sentinel. "I have been relieved by General Grant himself, and didn't know him."

How could he, when not a mark of the General's rank was in sight, and the poor fellow was yet too green in service to know what a fault he had committed in yielding post and gun to any but his regular relief?

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 10, 1887.

Messrs. F. J. Cheney & Co.—Gentlemen:—I have been in the general practice of medicine for most 40 years, and would say that in all my practice and experience, have never seen a reparation that I could prescribe with as much confidence of success as I can Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by you. Have prescribed it a great many times and its effect is wonderful, and would say in conclusion that I have yet to find a case of Catarrh that it would not cure if they would take it according to directions.

Yours Truly,

Good News for Girls.

The British Association has had the question of stays or corsets under consideration, and we are assured by the London Journal of Education that these learned biologists have reached the conclusion that moderate constriction of the trunk does no harm, and that a slight compression of the abdomen will drive the superfluous blood thence, and render it available for brain and muscle. They remind us, moreover, that Elijah girded up his loins to run, that in a Greek a well-zoned man meant an active man and in Latin an ungirt man signified an effeminate debauchee. When doctors differ thus, whom are we to follow? What will Dr. Garrett Anderson say? The question can hardly be considered settled by the examination of five stayless ladies in the anthropological labreatory, though one of them reached 200 for breathing capacity, the average mark being 130.

Common Sense

Should be used in curing that very disagreeable disease, catarrh. A catarrh originates in impurities in the blood, local applications can do no permanent good. The common-sense method of treatment is to purify the blood, and for this purpose there is no preparation superior to Hood's Sarsaparilla. That this peculiar medicine does cure catarrh is shown by the many testimonials from people who have found relief upon using it when all others had failed. A book containing statements of cures sent on receipt of two-cent stamp, by C. I. HOOD & Co., Lowell Mass.

THERE is intense feeling in Atlanta, Ga., over the acquittal of George Eddleman, who was on trial for the murder of Tom Gresham, whom he shot in a barroom brawl a few months ago. Eddleman has gone out of town until the indignation cools. This is the town that had no licensed saloons and no brawls for over a year, when it voted to return to the license system with the above result. The saloon did it.

A rolling-pin gathers no dough.

Which Was It? Bacon or Shakespeare.

The authorship of the dramatic productions attributed to the last of above named is agitating literary circles to the very centre but affects the practical masses far less than the momentous question, how to regain or preserve health, that essential of bodily and mental activity, business and the pursuit of happiness." We can throw far more light on this subject than the most profound Shakespearian can on the question first propounded. If the system is depleted; the nerves shaky; if indigestion or constipation bothers one at time, or constantly: if the skin is yellow and tongue furred as in biliousness; if there are premonitory twinges of oncoming rheumatism or neuralgia; if the kidneys are inactive—Use Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the finest recuperant of an age prolific in beneficial and successful remedies. Remember, if malaria threatens or afflicts, that it neutralizes the poison and fortifies the system.

With some men their political "bias" is "buy us," and we have many of them "buy us."

TWO ABSENT MINDED MEN.

Conversation Overheard in a Theater Between Acts.

"Now, be sure not to forget," said a lady, playfully shaking her finger at her escort as he arose to stretch his legs between acts, and, turning to a lady friend, explained: "He is so absent minded."

"Does he forget your letters and errands?"

"Oh, no, indeed! He is so absent minded I never intrust any to him. But he forgets me. Why, only last week he went out between acts and never returned. I went home alone and found him peacefully smoking his cigar before the open fire, quite oblivious of myself and the theater. I was very indignant, but when I began with tears in my eyes: "How could you go off and leave me so?" the whole occurrence seemed to flash upon him. He sprang to his feet declaring that he had been worrying all the evening about something he had forgotten and so overwhelmed me with loving protestations that I couldn't talk to him very seriously."

"How sad. I wonder if all men are so afflicted. My husband is. Why I remember one day he arose from the dinner-table, and, feeling a slight uneasiness in his eyes, began operations upon them with his toothpick, nearly destroying his sight."

"How unfortunate."

"Yes, and one night I asked him to replenish the fuel in the grate, and in a abstraction the brought in a hod of water and poured it on the fire, scalding himself and bringing ruin to everything."

"O-o-h, how perfectly awful! But I hadn't begun to tell you the worst about my husband. Why, it was only a week after our marriage, while walking down Woodward avenue arm in arm, he so far forgot himself as to imagine he had an extremely burdensome bundle under his arm, and offered a newsboy a quarter to carry it for him.

"'But war's yer bundle, mister?" the little fellow inquired. And, will you believe it, my Benedict deliberately handed me over to the small boy, and I was so mortified——"

Her voice was drowned by the orchestra.

HOW TO HANDLE A WASP.—"It's a fact not generally known," says a writer in science, "that if one holds his breath wasps, bees, and hornets can be handled with impunity. The skin becomes sting proof, and holding the insect by the feet and giving her full liberty of action, you can see her drive her weapon against the impenetrable surface with a force that lifts her body with every stroke; but let the smallest quantity of air escape from the lungs and the sting will penetrate at once' I have never seen an exception to this in twenty-five years' observation. I have taught young ladies, with very delicate hands, to astonish their friends by the performance of this feat, and I saw one so severely stung as to require the services of a physician through laughing at a witty remark of her sister, forgetting that laughing required breath. For a theory in explanation I am led to believe that holding the breath partially closes the pores of the skin. My experiments in that direction have not been exact enough to be of any scientific value, but I am satisfied that it very sensibly affects the amount of insensible perspiration."

FOUR white travelers were attacked by a band of negroes in Mercer county, West Virginia, on Sunday last, when two were shot and robbed of $600. The other two men made their way to Bramwell and gave an alarm. Fifty men went in pursuit, but up to last account the outlaws had not been captured.

COLLEGE-BRED HUMOR.

The authorities of Ann Arbor can't appreciate humor Several students, who could not suppress an innate tendency to be funny, undertook to run the town on Halloween night, and the police, objecting to an interference with rights which they assumed, belonged only to themselves, coolly arrested the fellows and lodged them in jail. The humorous collegians sought only to break up a political meeting and to prevent a campaign club from parading, and for this they were hustled into a common lockup, just like ordinary mischief-makers!

Clearly, the Ann Arbor guardians of the peace should be discharged and their places filled with men who are capable of understanding the niceties of refined humor. To the ordinary mortal there may not appear to be anything remarkably brilliant or especially funny in the breaking up of an assemblage of peaceable citizens, anxious to listen to a political speech or to show themselves in a parade. A person of dull intellect probably would see nothing witty in the stealing of a sign, the displacing of a gate or a door or any of the thousand and one pranks which college boys have played unmolested times out of mind. Unfortunately the great mass of the American people—including, of course, the Ann Arbor police—have not enjoyed the advantage of a classical education, and could not be expected to look upon these things with the spectacles of men devoted to literary and philosopoical studies. And because of the obtuse-mindedness of such persons the brilliant and gifted perpetrators of an excellent joke—from the classical standpoint—must spend a night behind the bars of a prison cell. When will the world look on college men as it ought?—Vote for Harrison, —Look at the chimney they have built to the new station building. They resolved to have one thing about the structure imposing and have thrown all their talent in this direction in the chimney. The building itself, though a gross imposition, is not at all imposing. but this chimney is quite awe-inspiring. Perhaps the ultimate design is to build the structure up to the chimney in the course of a few centuries.

Catarrh

May affect any portion of the body where the mucous membrane is found. But catarrh of the head is by far the most common, and the most liable to be neglected. It cannot be cured by local applications. Being a constitutional disease it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, working through the blood, eradicates the impurity which causes and promotes the catarrh, and soon effects a permanent cure. At the same time Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up the whole system, and makes one feel renewed in strength and health. If you suffer from catarrh, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Ringing Noises

Impure Blood

"I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The effort to clear my head in the morning by hawking and spitting was painful. Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without the medicine in my house as I think it is worth its weight in gold." MRS. G. B. GIBB, 1029 Eighth St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

"Afternoon Tea."

Said Mrs. G. to Mrs. D.
(T'was o'er a cup of fine Bohea):
"Our pretty hostess yonder,
Has gained in looks surprisingly;
She seems as well as well can be
What is the cause I wonder."

Said Mrs. D. to Mrs. G.,
"She's changed indeed, but then you see,
She put aside objection,
And tried that famous remedy,
Which did so much for you and me—
Pierce's Favorite Prescription."

For billiousness, sick headache, indigestion, and constipation, there is no remedy equal to Dr. Pierce's Little Pellets.

A CASE of much interest to betrothed people has just been decided upon appeal in a Scottish court. A lady brought suit for beach of promise against a young man who admitted having been engaged to her. His defense was that she opposed his smoking and finally used the words: "Choose between me and your cigar." He chose the cigar. The judge of the lower court held that in giving her young man leave to choose between the two alternate she became responsible for the choice made. The higher court sustained the decision, and the ex-lover now puffs his cigar with the feeling that it is his deliverer. Smoking is often spoken of as a vice, but after this case there will be perverse people who will maintain it has its merits.

A Grand Republican Rally at Milesburg.

The very enthusiastic meeting of the Protectionists of Milesburg and Boggs township, in Boggs Hall, Friday evening, was presided over by L. T. Eddy, with J. C. P. Jones, secretary. The list of vice presidents was as follows:

Milesburg borough—H. T. Ryman Z. D. Miles, Llewellyn Fulton, Alfred Green, Isaac Ginger, James George, Robert L. Shirk, Chas. Adams, John Swyers, Wm. Monsel, Hugh Sharp, Green McKinly, Solomon Shay, George Watson, Benjamin Aston, J. P. Bullock, John Confer, Wesley Crans, John I. Gingher.

Boggs township—Nathaniel Bierly, Chas. Caldwell, John Delaney, George Derr, C. C. Eckert. John Fetzer, Jos. Kitchen, R. W. Gibbs, Elias Hancock, James Kreps, Chas. E. Neff, D. P. Shope, Jacob Snyder, Byron Feller, W. H. Wagner, Benjamin Wyland, William Adams, Jr., John Zimmerman.

After some very pertinent and appropriate remarks by President L. T. Eddy, Mr. Miller, of Bellefonte, was introduced and spoke at some length on the political questions of the day, being interrupted with frequent applause. E. R. Chambers, Esq., was the next speaker and aroused very great enthusiasm, every sentence being applauded. J. C. P. Jones was called for and delivered a strong speech.

The hall was crowded to overflowing. The Milsburg Cornet Band and the Milesburg drum corps interspersed the other exercises with patriotic and soul-stiring music. It was the greatest political meeting which has been held in Milesburg for twenty-five years. The asemblage adjourned with three times three cheers for Harrison and Morton and the whole Republican ticket.

A New Type Writer.

A Williamsport man named Augustus Pursell is the inventor of a type writer which is new in design and is expected to be cheaper than others. The Gazette and Bulletin describes it as belonging to that class of machines in which the type are carried at the free end of bars, supported by a disc above the carriage. Eighty bars directly connected with the keys are employed and arranged to strike down to a common centre upon a roll. The bars are joined to the disc in large eared hinges, and by the additional aid of partition pieces between each bar, a perfect alignment is preserved. By depressing on the key its type is carried by the bar down to the printing part and an impression made through a traveling inking ribbon, but is prevented from perforating the paper by the type falling upon a rubber cushion upon the plane of the disc. The carriage, after each impression, automatically moves the space of one letter.

A most convenient and practical featurs is in the use of thick and thin rolled paper. The machine is thus continually supplied and the inconvenience of placing sheets is avoided. Upon the thin paper a copy is obtained, and this copy is in sight of the operator all the time. Ordinary sheets as well as the rolled paper can be used as conveniently without as with the thin copying paper. A number of duplicate imppessions can be obtained at the same operation. The machine, though not large, is simple in mechanism, requiring less than one-half the number of parts or pieces in its construction as are used in others of present popularity, and its speed is limited only by the skill of the operator.

Class '91, P. S. C., Banquets at the Bush House.

Class '91 of the State College assembled at the Bush House on Friday evening for the purpose of indulging in its annual banquet. Twenty-two students gathered around the festive board. All who understand the rare quality and heartiness of the appetite which characterizes the average college student can comprehend how the rich viands disappeared before the sudden and united onslaught of this class. The banquet began at 9 o'clock and as it was followed by several toasts the festivity was continued until a late hour. U. Hamilton presided as master of toasts, which were responded to as follows:

"The Class," J. F. Shields.
"The Faculty," C. H. Zink, Jr.
"Our Girls," H. V. Holmes.
"Fraternities," N. H. Suloff.
"Athletics," C. H. Musser.
"Quondum Members," T. A. Gilkey.
"Ye Grinders," J. Yocum.
"The Committee," G. M. Johnson.

The arrangements were in charge of a committee consisting of C. H. Zink, Jr., H. V. Holmes and G. M. Johnson. The menu was all that could be desired and a credit to the class and the caterer.

"Untold Agony from Catarrh."

Prof. W. HAUSNER, the famous mesmerist, of Ithaca, N. Y., writes: "Some ten years ago I suffered untold agony from chronic nasal catarrh. My family physician gave me up as incurable, and said I must die. My case was such a bad one, that every day, towards sunset, my voice would become so hoarse I could barely speak above a whisper. In the morning my coughing and clearing of my throat would almost strangle me. By the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, in three months, I was a well man, and the cure has been permanent."

"Constantly Hawking and Spitting."

THOMAS J. RUSHING, Esq., 2903 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh for three years. At times I could hardly breathe, and was constantly hawking and spitting, and for the last eight months could not breathe through the nostrils. I thought nothing could be done for me. Luckily, I was advised to try Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and I am now a well man. I believe it to be the only sure remedy for catarrh now manufactured, and one has only to give it a fair trial to experience astounding results and a permanent cure."

Three Bottles Cure Catarrh.

ELI ROBBINS, Runyan P. O., Columbia Co., Pa., says: "My daughter had catarrh when she was five years old, very badly. I saw Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy advertised, and procured a bottle for her, and soon saw that it helped her; a third bottle effected a permanent cure. She is now eighteen years old and sound and hearty."

Large Steel Plant at Latrobe.

The large steel plant recently located and now under course of erection at Latrobe will be completed by April, 1889, and is in some respects the largest in the United States. This plant will cost from $600,000 to $1,000,000. This alone will increase the population 1,000 to 2,000. But the end is not yet; other capitalists are now speculating for sites on which to erect mills of greater magnitude. The new silk mill will employ from 100 to 200 hands; yet, with all these facilities, you can buy property cheaper than in any other town of like size in the State. The natural gas company recently organized at Scottdale has now over 1,200 acres of land under lease, and during the next ten days expects to contract for as much more. The land selected is directly on the Grapeville and Uniontown gas belt and lies about four miles west of Scottdale. The stock is about all taken up, and the company intend going to work in earnest. The strike at the Kelley & Jones iron works is over and the men have again gone to work. The Westinghouse Air Brake Company has purchased nearly all of the available ground between Turtle Creek and Braddock for the new plant there and have a large force of men employed laying the foundation for a new freight car depot and shops, in which to put on the air brakes. A number of the coke operators have decided to advance coke to $1.25 on November 1. It is claimed the objections to this advance come only from the operators who are oversold while the smaller operators can't afford to make coke for $1 per ton. The larger firms booked contracts at $1 per ton, and not being able to supply them all from their ovens, are afraid that they will have to buy from the smaller operators at $1.25 and sell at $1. The workers in the Connellsville coke regions, it is said, will demand an advance as soon as the price is put up.

—Surveyors are at work laying out a railroad route from the town of Clearfield to Falls Creek, four miles west of the Beech Creek railroad. There is a rumor that this part of the road will be commenced in the spring.

An Interrupted Programme.

Buffalo Courier.

An incident on an Allen street car, Buffalo, last Saturday afternoon, furnished amusement for a lot of passengers. A mischevous girl of about two and a half years caused the trouble. A young man and his best girl boarded the car at Main street, bound for Olympic Park. The child was precocious and attracted the attention of the young woman. The intimacy between the two ripened very fast, for the baby exclaimed; "I like oo! I want to tiss oo," The kiss was bestowed, and then the affectionate youngster added:

"I want to tiss oo, too," addressing the young man. The latter complied with the request with evident reluctance, but the eyes of fifty or more passengers were on him, and he could not back out. Then the elf hurried the climax by saying 'Now tiss mamma, too." The young woman scowled, the young man smiled, the mother scowled and sat the child down hard in a vacant seat.

Facts of Interest Collected Especially for this Paper.

Three hundred and three persons died violent deaths in this state in 1886.

The number of births in this state annually is equal to 29 per 1,000 of the population while the number of marriages is equal to only 8.4 per 1,000.

The number of births in Pennsylvania each year exceeds the deaths by over 1500.

More deaths occurred from typhoid fever in this state, in 1865 than any year previous or since, so far as the record has been kept.

The greatest number of deaths occur in March. The largest number of births in July.

Advice for Wives.

Be gentle and firm with children.
Beware of the first disagreement.
Beware of meddlers and tail-bearers.
Learn to speak in a gentle tone of voice.
Avoid moods and pets and fits of sulkiness.
Never charge a bad motive if a good one is conceivable.
Learn to say kind and pleasant things whenever opportunity offers.
Never speak or act in anger until you have prayed over your words or acts.
Remember that valuable as is the gift of speech, silence is often more valuable.
Never retort a sharp or angry word. It is the second word that makes the quarrel.
Study the characters of each and sympathise with all their troubles, however small.

—Company B. ball was held on Friday evening in the Rink and was a thoroughly enjoyable occasion.

The Weather for the Coming Winter.

J. William Thorne, of Salisbury township, Lancaster county, basing his predictions upon the lunar cycle rule, has this to say about the weather of the coming winter: The first onset of winter will be more than usually early and severe. About two or three weeks of good sleighing may be expected before the advent of the new year. The roads will be considerably obstructed by heavy snowfalls. After the 1st of January there may be some snow and sleet, but the balance of the winter will be moderate, with but very few cold days. During the whole winter the navigation of the river Delaware at Philadelphia will be but little obstructed by ice. Spring will come more than usually early. Oats will will be sown and potatoes planted by the 25th of March. The greater portion of March and April will be good outdoor working weather. The summer following will be above the average temperature. Wheat, corn, oats and hay will, at least equal the average rate of production. Apples, peaches and cherries will be of good quality, but in quantity will fall a little below their average yield. The pear crop will be abundant and of good quality; grapes will also be abundant and less inclined to mildew than usual. There will be but little rainfall during the latter part of the summer. We notice that the predictions of the weather prophets do not agree. People can take their choice, but be sure to vote for the Republican candidates.

—An uptown electrician has discovered a way to stop the cat serenading business. He has attached a wire to the back fence and when the cats climb on the fence and begin their nightly "yowl" he turns on the battery. Not one of the cats has been killed, but they are so surprised that a truly heart-rending concluding "yowl" closes the concert for the night.

—Robert Shank, of Lock Haven, while at work the other day in the Irvona Lumber company's mill, had his right leg caught in a pair of large cog wheels, grinding the flesh from that member between the knee and hip. His chances of recovery are poor.

WONDER OF WONDERS.

An Attempt to Take Money From the Pockets of an Editor.

OF COURSE THE EDITOR GETS AWAY WITH HIS ASSAILANT.

Special to the Altoona TRIBUNE.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., Nov. 1.—A dastardly attempt at highway robbery was made to-night in one of the most prominent thoroughfares in this place. The scene of the assault is on what is known as Union avenue, a side street running from Penn street to Allegheny street, and which is traveled at all hours of the day. A few minutes before 7 o'clock to-night Howard E. Butz, Esq., editor of the Globe, had occasion to pass through this avenue on his way to the station and when near the end emerging on Allegheny street he was accosted by an unknown individual, who without any word of warning, struck Mr. Butz a terrible blow on the breast, felling him to the ground. The suddenness of the unprovoked attack and the powerful blow which he received dazed Mr. Butz momentarily, and while lying prostrate on the ground his assailant endeavored to rifle his pockets of his money and other valuables which he carried. Before the villain had succeeded in completing his search Mr. Butz revived sufficiently to enable him to gain his feet, and with a quick move he planted a stunning blow on his assailan't jugular, which landed him across the avenue. He was about to follow up this advantage with another blow, but his cowardly assailant fled precipitately from the scene. The identity of the villain could not be learned.

—Hypocrisy is not a sufficient term by which to stigmatise Grover Cleveland's occupancy of the Presidential chair. Perfidy more clearly expresses it. His career causes an honest man to shudder. Taken from obscurity, with an odium of evil reputation attaching to him, he was accidentally elected. He was elected over a statesman and a scholar, which makes the very beginning of his career a disgrace. Then he violated all the terms of his civil service promises. His very acceptance of a second nomination is a deception and a fraud, because he had already stated that a second term is not desirable. This fact, taken into consideration with his present position, should be sufficient to prevent an honorable person from voting for him. Then consider his pension vetoes. For a great big 300 pound man, who was too cowardly to go to war, to keep back a pension from one who was brave enough, is the basest of ingratitude. Then Lord Sackville West's letter proves what has all along been maintained, that he is at heart a friend of England and of English interests. His retaliation message and his present act of sending West home are mere bits of buncombe which add the climax to his career of perfidy. And then to hear a respectable man praise him is of all things most astonishing and disgusting. The wonder is that the entire Nation does not unite and as one man vote against him and consign him to the obscurity he deserves. Though we had no part in putting him there, we have, all these four years, sustained a sense of shame caused by his presence there, for which at present the election of such a noble and worthy gentlemen as General Benjamin Harrison can alone bring relief.

—Among the many magazines and papers which are generally found at an editor's home there are none which delight the feminine members of our household as the "House-keeper," published at Minneapolis, Minn. This magazine is what its name would imply a perfect help in all departments of house-keeping. The cooking recipes are wholesome and toothsome, while the many letters from the sisterhood on all subjects pertaining to home, its arrangements and adornment are both interesting and instructive. No doubt many a housewife has found her labor lightened by copying the method described by some other sister. Back numbers contain many new and charming designs in fancy work of all descriptions. Also minute instructions in painting. We think the "House-keeper" desires a place in every household, and the subscription price being only $1.00 per year, places it within the reach of all. Extremely fine premiums are offered to club raisers.

Minneapolis, Minn.

The P. R. R. Company's Latest Purchase

A big railroad deal is the outcome of the natural gas industry. The Pennsylvania Railroad has purchased the Turtle Creek Valley Railroad, better known as the "Murraysville Road." The negotiations have been on foot for some time, but the purchase was only completed a few days ago, and the offices of the company have just been transferred to Philadelphia. The terms of the purchase, as near as can be ascertained, were the transfer of the majority of stock at a premium amounting to a figure near $250,000.

—About 4 o'clock Monday morning a terrific explosion occurred at Robert Hare Powel & Co.'s furnace at Saxton, Bedford county. By some means the cold blast was connected with the hot gas current conveyed from the boilers to No. 1 furnace, and instantly the large pipe was shattered by the explosion that ensued. The people in the town were aroused from their slumbers and thought that an earthquake had occurred. The shock was felt for a distance of a mile or more. Considerable damage was done about the furnace, but no one was injured. Work will be suspended until repairs are made, which will require about a week.

Indian Summer in Prospect.

The New York Herald, which has its own weather bureau, prognosticates thusly: "November this year will probably be relatively a somewhat milder month over the country—At the east of the Mississippi—than the October just passed. The unusual number of storms which have been moving for some weeks from the tropical zone along our gulf and South Atlantic coasts may account for the cold October, as the indraught of these depressions has created exceptionally strong cold currents from the region north of the lakes. But the season for tropical cyclones is now over. As the polar area grows rapidly colder this month the atmospheric pressure consequently increases there by air drawn in southerly winds from our part of the continent. We may hope, therefore, to have some Indian summer before December's biting blasts arrive. This will be good news to all classes, but especially to hunters, whose favorite pastime can now be most successfully pursued.

Points from Fairbrook.

The potato rot is a general complaint.

The farmers are husking corn, which, in this vicinity, is a good crop.

Miss Laura Meek expects to go to Kansas in a few weeks where she will visit her brother.

Why is it that Oscar complains about Mr. Ewing's bridge?

William Carter claims to have a horse that can beat the record walking.

Mr. Milo Campbell, while husking corn on Thursday, found a coin marked "Liberty," issued when Harrison's grandfather was president.

Mr. J. W. Carter, one of our best Republicans, attempted to go to a Democratic meeting the other night, but his horse broke through the bridge and sprained one of its fore legs. Joseph is in favor of protection now.

The west precinct of Ferguson township will give Harrison 60 of a majority. The township, as a whole, will be nearly a tie. Formerly it had a Democratic majority of 80. Hurrah for Harrison!

DICK.

The Good Templar Lodge.

A week ago officers for the ensuing year, beginning November 1st, were elected by the Lodge of Good Templars in this place and on Thursday evening of this week they were installed. The list is as follows:

The lodge continues to be in a prosperous condition and, with its new officers, should start upon a renewed and stronger existence. It seems to be a temperance organization which has, thus far, steered clear of politics, and we hope the temperance people of the town will take a special interest in it and aid it in its commendable work.

—There was a very considerable gathering of eminent local statemen at the depot here Thursday morning, and in politics they were almost equally mixed. Chas. T. Fryberger, one of the gentlemen who will be chosen by a large majority, to represent Centre county in the legislature, conversed in an interested manner with Chairman Brown. The latter waved away Statesman Francis Speer with his left hand, but afterwards Legislator Fryberger gave Mr. Speer an audience. President of the School Board D. F. Fortney allowed the golden sunlight to reflect a halo about his glowing hair as he conversed with ex-Legislator Woodward, whose unusually handsome English mutton-chop whiskers were also unusually brilliant. Ex-Postmaster Jno T. Johnston was a notiable figure in the throng and Ex-Sheriff Walker seemed as buoyant and happy as possible considering that the outcome of the election threatens to be disastrous to him.

—Mr. James Schofield had an engagement Wednesday evening to talk on politics at Snow Shoe. So anxious was he to fiulfill his engagement that he could not wait for Wednesday to arrive. On Tuesday morning he awoke to a realizing sense that it was Wednesday, and he hurried, satchel in hand, to the morning train for Snow Shoe. If he had not informed some one of the meeting and they reminded him that the meeting was yet more than a day in the future he would have gone to Snow Shoe. These political times must have a confusing effect on Mr. Schofield.

—The Y. W. C. T. U. has at last decided on a time for its long talked of "Fair,"—the 16th of November. All sorts of fancy articles, suitable for Christmas presents, will be on sale, and also a good supply of the home made candy for which in the past they have acheived quite a reputation.

Howard and Vicinity.

Miss Clara Kline, who is teaching school in Clinton Co., is home on a two weeks vacation.

Mr. Will McClintick, Howard's popular liveryman, paid his regular visit to Salona last Saturday.

Wm. Bland has put a partition in his variety store, one part of the room being used for oyster eating purposes.

The shade trees in front of Hiram Lucas' dwelling have been neatly trimmed, adding beauty to his premises.

On Friday evening, the 2d inst., the Democratic clans will gather in Lucas' Hall, where they will be addressed by able speakers.

Our farmers are busily engaged in husking corn which is an excellent crop this year. Heretofore the weather has been unfavorable for fall work.

The Republican Protectionists will hold a meeting at Mt. Eagle, this (Saturday) evening. Speakers from Bellefonte will be present.

Last Tuesday Constable Neff received a telegram from the Sheriff of Clearfield county to arrest a person by the name of Sayer, who had committed a highway robbery in that county, and was supposed to be on a freight train. Our Constable instituted a search, but failed to find him although he had been seen in this vicinity.

A pumpkin pie party was recently given at John Fearon's below Beech Creek. The parties partaking of that luxury from this place were Messrs. Jno. Weber, Jack Stitzer, Willie Weber and Tom Lucas. One of the party reports that Willie Weber and Lucas drove off the bridge and would have drowned if the others had not come to their rescue.

Our good looking ticket agent, Mr. Walter Cooke, the other night gave an oyster supper to his friends, John Weber, Al. Irvin, Ed. Holmes and others, at which it is reported that John Weber got out side of more oysters than any two of the party.

The Ladies Missionary Circle, of Eagleville, will entertain the public on Nov. 3, with on oyster supper, box party and festival. The ladies of that place understand how to get up an entertainment of that kind.

Howard's popular hardware merchant, Mr. Ansen Schenck, has received a full line of stoves and tinware. He is always ready to do spouting or tin-roofing when called on. He has also taken the agency for all kinds of farming implements and machinery.

Some of our citizens thought to make a corner in chestnuts by going to the mountains and gathering the whole crop. This trust, syndicate or combine, was composed of Messrs. Wm. Smith, Wm. Neff, Jr., Jacob DeHaas, David Hannon, Walter Cooke, Rothrick Gardner, James Lucas and Harry Knarr. After prospecting on the head waters of Big Run, and their remedies for snake bites having become exhausted the combine returned home with less than ten bushels of chestnuts.

Cleveland's Great Defaulter Once a Resident of Milesburg.

ED. DAILY NEWS: Thomas Axworthy, who is making himself conspicuous by his absence from Cleveland, in spite of the yawning treasury and trio of yawning bondsmen, was once a resident of Boggs township. His father moved from Philadelphia to the neighborhood of the Snow Shoe intersection during "Tom's" early days and intended establishing his only son in the dairy business on a farm which he bought, now owned by Mrs. Rolley. But his present love of retirement had not then developed in Tom to any considerable extent, and after several years residence on the farm, during which time he was married, he, with the Axworthy family, returned to Philadelphia. He has visited Milesburg since establishing himself in Cleveland and is well remembered by many persons in this place. C. H. R.

Milesburg, Oct. 30.

[So it seems that Centre county is not only famous for the men whom it has sent out to fill honorable positions in the world, but it is also notable for the great scamps who once made this vicinity their home. Ward, the man who was in partnership with Grant, it will be remembered, once made Bellefonte his abiding place, and is now in Sing Sing—Ed.]

Withdrawal of Round-trip Tickets to the Richmond Exposition.

The passenger department of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company announces all round-trip tickets heretofore sold at reduced rates, to Richmond, Va., on account of the Virginia Mechanical, Agricultural, and Tobacco Exposition, have been withdrawn from sale at all of the company's offices located in the territory north and east of Baltimore.

—Dr. E. Irwin Kirk, formerly of Bellefonte, but lately of Concordin, Kansas, is in town with a view to locating here as a physician. We take pleasure in recommending Dr. Kirk to the people here. He is a gentleman in every respect, and a physician of many years experience. We hope he will meet with the success he looks for.—Philipsburg Ledger.

—The old depot building, which has been moved down the railroad track to be converted into a freight depot, has been surrounded by a substantial platform and walks land from it out to the track. A railing has been placed along the race and the temporary bridge across the race has also been protected by a railing. The query is Why don't the railroad company also place a railing along the race near the new depot building, as there is the more dangerous place?

In Memoriam.

By request, we publish the following:

CASE.—On Sunday, October 21, 1888, at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. William Fitzgerald, in Bellefonte, Mrs. Sarah Ann Case, aged 76 years.

Oh, no! She is not dead, for something in her face did shine, higher far and brighter than "mortality."

Mrs. Sarah Ann Case, relict of George Case, late of Cresent, Lycoming county, Pa., departed this life at eleven o'clock Sunday evening, October 21st, 1888, aged seventy-six years, in Bellefonte, at the residence of William Fitzgerald, the husband of her daughter Isabel, with whom she made her home since the death of her husband, about eight years ago; she had, however, a home in the house of any of her children; her visits to them were always received with hearty welcome and ended with regret.

In the home of her choice she was a precious member, highly prized and beloved by all; her affection for the children secured for them her almost constant care and attention; and with them, one at either side, she would be seen in her pew in the Presbyterian church as regularly as the Sabbath came, being a member of that church for many years. She was a devout, consistent Christian, a true and faithful follower of her Lord and Saviour, possessing, in a remarkable degree, faith—faith in the power of prayer, looking for the granting of her petitions in God's own way and time, and was many times blessed with a realization that God does hear and answer the prayers of the righteous.

Funeral services were held at 8½ o'clock Tuesday morning, thence by early train the friends with the remains proceeded to Wildwood cemetery, Williamsport, were the remains were placed beneath the turf on which she had many times kneeled beside her husband's grave.

To mourn her departure from this life she left nine children and many grandchildren. The children are William, of Milton, Pa., George, Charles and Alice Case and Isabel Fitzgerald, Bellefonte, Pa., Alba Case, Diana Ball and Sarah Dietrick, Williamsport, Pa., Elizabeth Hyleman, Washington, D. C.

Her memory is entwined around each and every one of them, and long will she be remembered as their dear, kind mother, who from their infancy, had watched them with a mother's eye, nurtured and cared for them with a mother's heart. 'Twas their loss, her gain. Blessed be her memory.

He (cautiously): "Wha would you do, Fannie, if I were to kiss you?" Fannie. "Nothing, Harry. What would there be for me to do? You could attend to it, couldn't you?"

A maiden speech: "O George!"

Seedy Individual: "Madam, can't you give something to a yellow fever sufferer?" Woman: "Ain't you the same man that called here a few months ago and got twenty-five cents to help a blizzard sufferer?" Seedy Individual: "Yes, ma'am. I don't do nuthin, but suffer from one year's end to another."

Magistrate (to Uncle Rastus, who has been unfortunate again): 'Your name, prisoner?' Uncle Rastus: "Must I give my name, sah?" Magistrate: "Certainly you must, Uncle Rastus," Uncle Rastus: "Well' now, yo' honah, I done understand' frum de lawyer, dat nobody am compelled to say nuffin wot has er tendency ter convict hisself."

Slippery Young Men.—Philadelphia aunt [severely]: "As I glanced into the parlor last evening I saw you with a young man's arm around you." Chicago niece (calm): "Yes, aunty. I was waiting for you to pass the door to see us. Young men are very slippery nowadays, and one can't have too many witnesses."

Magistrate: "Are you guilty or not guilty, Uncle Rastas?" Uncle Rastus: "I specs' I won't declar' myself, yo' honah. Yo' see, sah, if I should say I was guilty, an' de gemmen ob de jury fin' me not guilty, den dey could sen'me up fo' pleurisy, or some sech crime in law. So I prefers to remain quiet, but non-committal."

DIRECTIONS ON THE BOTTLE.—"I am going to send my boy to your gallery to have his picture taken," said a druggist to a photographer. "Think you can manage him without me?" "Well, I should say so," was the confident rejoinder. "I'm not so sure of that. You'll find him a tough customer to manage; however," he added, reflectively, "I can put the direction on the bottle," and he bade the puzzled photographer good-day. In due time the druggist's son, a mischievous youngster, visited the photographer's gallery, and the artist found him indeed hard to manage. He exhausted all the known devices for keeping the boy quiet, and invented several new ones, but in vain. Finally he remembered the apothecary's odd remark about the directions, and upon inspection of the boy he discovered pasted upon the back of his neck the legend "To be well shaken before taken." Acting at once and vigorously upon the suggestion he succeeded in intimidating the boy and obtaining a picture.

His Curiosity Fully Satisfied.—Small man [on railway train, writing letter to his wife]: "It would afford you some amusement, my dear, if you could see the freckle-faced, long, lean, gamble-shanked, knock-kneed, sneaking, impertinent, ill-bred, half-baked specimen of a backwoods gawky that is looking over my shoulder as I write this—" Large man on seat behind (fiercely); "You lie, you little scoun—', Small man (turning round): "Beg pardon, sir; are you speaking to me?" "Large man (confusedly). "Y—no! No! didn't say thything. I wasn't speaking. I—I—" Small man resumes his writing. Large man goes back to the rear platform of the last car on the train and relieves his mind by swearing volubly at the flying landscape.

—The new depot building is hardly large enough to say much about. The fact is dawning upon us that it is to be only about as large as a squashed tomato. We suppose Bellefonte citizens may as well give up all hope of receiving justice from the Pennsylvania railroad. Its action seems to be beneath contempt.

TRY IT YOURSELF.

"It is of no use to argue the question, Philip I am neither stubborn nor opinionated, I have simply had a lesson that will last a lifetime."

"Look here, Jack! you are like some old bachelor who has been jilted by some woman, and goes about declaring all women false."

"Not at all! my brother Charley died of Bright's disease, brought on by using one of these so called 'blood purifiers'—the kind you see attractively advertised in every nook and corner. It contains iodide of potassium, a drug useful in extreme cases when cautiously given under a doctor's supervision, death-dealing to all who take it in quantity. If your brother had died under such circumstances, you would hate patent medicines as I do."

"I do dislike the name of that mis-called 'blood purifier', for I have heard a first class physician say it is the cause of half the cases of Bright's disease in the country, and it is strange the proprietors have not been prosecuted for selling it. But I was recommending Vinegar Bitters and that does not contain any mineral, narcotic or other hurtful drug."

"Oh, nobody supposes that old woman's remedy will hurt anybody; the question is will it cure anything? I'd as soon think of taking some of my grandmother's herb tea."

"You would be better off, Jack, if you had some of that tea to tone up your system now, instead of taking a glass of brandy to make you sleep one night, and perhaps a bottle of beer next."

"Is this a temperance lecture, Phil?"

"No, it is a Vinegar Bitters lecture, I've taken the medicine more or less for fifteen years, and look the world over, you will not find a healthier man than I am."

"What is all this nonsense about old style and new style Vinegar Bitters; are they different?"

"Yes, the old style looks like coffee with milk in, the new style like coffee without milk. The man who made the old style for twenty years—a practical chemist—made a milder, pleasanter preperation, adding to it here, and taking from it there, until he produced, my wife says, the finest medicine ever made. It cured her of constipation, and it cures the children of hives and all the little ailments they ever have. If my wife thinks they have worms, she doses them with old style. We always have both kinds in the house, and together, they keep the doctor away."

"And you insist that the pudding—"

"Is the eating—precisely. Jack, get a bottle of the old style Vinegar Bitters—men, I think, prfer old style usually—try it, and von will then be like an old bachelor who, after railing against women for years, falls in love with a good woman at last. You will say there are good and bad patent medicines, but Vinegar Bitters is the best of the lot."

"All right, Phil, to please you, I'll try it and report results." 29-37-18m

NEW RECEIPT BOOK.

His Last & Crowning Life Work.

Dr. Chase's Third, Last and Complete Receipt Book and Household Physician, or the Book for the Million, contains nearly 900 pages and sells for $2.25 in cloth binding and $2.50 in imported oil cloth, marble edge, and is justly by him called

'THE CROWNING WORK OF MY LIFE.'

It is the result of over half a century's observation, study and experience. Yet this embodies no compilation of his former books, IT IS WHOLLY A NEW BOOK. If 30 years ago he could produce a book that has had a sale of over fifteen hundred thousand copies, and has made his name familiar in nearly every English-speaking home in the United States, Canada, and South America, what KIND of a book could or would he produce as his Crowning Life Work, WITH MORE THAN THIRTY YEARS OF ADDITIONAL PRACTICE AND EXPERIENCE? The book itself answers the question, and is the most valuable production in the history of book publishing.

The Book is published in both English and German.

Victory is Ours.

The Country is Redeemed From the Grasp of Cleveland and the South.

OHIO, CONNECTICUT, NEW JERSEY INDIANA AND PROBABLY OLD AND WEST VIRGINIA JOIN THE LOYAL NORTH.

One Hundred Thousand and an Upward Tendency in Pennsylvania.

A REPUBLICAN TIDAL WAVE IN THE EMPIRE STATE.

All the telegrams which have come pouring into Bellefonte since the close of the polls on Tuesday evening are of the most inspiring character. It shows that the country has been rescued from the control of the Democratic party. After four years of control the people hrve repudiated Cleveland and his followers. It is Cleveland and Clevelandism which are overthrown; and to secure again a fighting chance Democracy must change its policy. The defeat is overwhelming. All the northern states even New Jersey join the Republican column.

The news as it was received plainly showed that the Democratic plurality in New York City would be kept within the limit of 55,000 and in Brooklyn within 12,000, which was 3,000 less than had been conceded to them. Slight Republican gains were made in the two cities and larger ones in the State and it is a conservative estimate to say that the majority in that state will be20,000.

About three o'clock this morning a dispatch was received from Senator Cooper giving the Republicans all of the Northern States and possibly the two Virginias. This of course, was so excellent that the audience could not express their enthusiasm.

THE VOTE IN CONNECTICUT.

The New York Herald bulletin says Cleveland has carried Connecticut by 859.

NEW JERSEY.

New Jersey, Gloucester county, Republican majority about 900, New York Herald bulletin says nine Democratic congressmen elected in the city.

MICHIGAN.

One hundred and five districts give Republican gain of 4651.

CONNECTICUT.

The Post has returns from 1140 towns, showing Republican gains of 1324 over the vote of 1884. The same ratio of gain in remaining towns will give Harrison the state by 450.

Cleveland's plurality in Brooklyn will be 11,539.

The New York Sun bulletin says that the Republican plurality in New York state will be small. Hill is probably elected.

In New York state outside of the city 581 districts gave Cleveland 99,740, Harrison 123,627, same districts before gave Cleveland 95,649, Blaine 119,680.

Republicans gain three senatorial districts in Hartford, Connecticut, Legislature probably Republican.

One hundred and seven towns, including Hartford and New Haven, give Harrison a gain of 1340.

The New York Tribune bulletin says that Hill is probably elected; that Harrison has carried the state by a plurality of 15'000 to 20,000.

The Republican majority in Philadelphia is 20,000.

A GREAT LOCAL TRIUMPH.

William M. Allison Elected to the Legislature.

RYNDER CARRIES THE DISTRICT FOR CONGRESS.

As a result of the ballot in Centre county on Tuesday we can announce that the Republican Legislative ticket has been elected by majorities of from two to three hundred. Some of the voting precincts were so changed around as to be scarcely recognizable, there being Republican gains of from 25 to 50 per cent. Bellefonte gave an average plurality of about 140 which is a gain of 50 over last year. Fryberger's majority in the borough was 144 and Allison's 157.

THE LATEST.

The official vote on legislature in the county is: Allison 4654, McCormick 4620, Holt 4641, Fryberger 4581.

The Latest from Lycoming County.

At 3 o'clock this morning those who had made estimates on the Judgeship claimed the election of Bentley by 150 majority.

It was also thought that McCormick had carried the county for Congress.

Two Excellent Sermons.

The theme of Rev. Ed. Everett Hoshour's sermon on Sunday morning was "Nothing but Leaves." His text was the 13th and 14th verses of the 11th chapter of St. Mark's Gospel. He said that when Jesus came to the fig tree he expected to find figs thereon. The purpose of trees is to bear fruit. The Christian is like the tree in that he should bear fruit. The Master did not rebuke the tree for having beautiful foliage, but only because that was all it bore. Hence our Christian lives must not only be pleasing to those who see them but they must be really useful and good. He explained many ways of doing good. The discourse was well constructed and full of excellent thoughts.

On Sunday evening Rev. W. H. H. Snyder, preached one of his usually bright and pointed discoures, this one being on "Amusements for the Young." His text was I Corinthians 6:31, "And they that use the world without abusing it." He believes too much time is employed by ministers in telling young people what they may not do rather than what they may do. The effect is to render Christianity objectionable to them. Our amusements and recreations should be such as will verily recreate

Out of Politics

After a careful consideration of the subject, it seems to us conclusive that the man is better off who is not a candidate for office or even who is not elected. But yet there is a certain fascinatien to many people about the occupancy of even the most trivial office, and even one which commands no salary at all. We feel like tendering sympathy to the many Democrats who suffered defeat on Tuesday and though we cannot refrain from saying "It served you right!" yet we can picture to them the blessings of being out of office.

It gives the man who is out a relief from the cares of State which is of much importance. The success of failure of this government does not entirely depend on each office holder, yet in his importance, he fondly imagines that it does. He will escape the censure of his fellow man, because it is the rule to censure and not commend the official. It is easy to find fault which is the reason so much fault is found with the public individual. Thank your stars that you are not elected to office.

The Lehigh Valley Settles.

The rate damages for loss of life in the Mud Run disaster on the Lehigh Valley Railroad was on Friday established by William Connell, the millionaire coal operator who represents the company. These were fixed at $3,500 where the death of the head of a family was involved, and at $1,500 for the death of children. On this basis two payments were made. The figures have been arrived at after a careful consultation with many of the afflicted relatives, and are the result of an average of the claims presented. It is expected that most of the death losses will be adjusted on this basis before the end of the week. The deaths in all number sixty-three, most of whom are children, and the losses will therefore foot up over $100,000. A large number of claims for injuries have also been presented to the company's representative, but no conclusion has been arrived at thereon. Katie Kennedy, of Scranton, who was terribly scalded and otherwise injured in the Mud Run crash, died on Friday from the effects of her injuries.

A Rally at Scotia.

The secretary Mr. Guyer Mattern sends us the particulars of a Republican meeting at Scotia on Thursday evening. He says it was a grand success, the hall was crowded. An organization was made by electing Daniel Harrity, Esq., President, D. M. Clemson and Samuel T. Gray, Vice Presidents, and G. G. Mattern secretary.

Addresses were delivered by E. R. Chambers and W. E. Gray, Esqs., of this place. The hall was elaborately decorated with the American flag. The audience included all the best citizens of that vicinity and the enthusiasm was unbounded. The speeches were of the best and most inspiring kind, and the audience was more than well pleased.

Mr. Mattern adds that the citizens of that locality thoroughly understand the political questions of the day and are in vital earnest. If the balance of the county does equally well a Republican victory in Centre county this year is assured.

—Venus is beginning to outshine the other evening stars. She may be seen in the southwestern sky at twilight. Jupiter is moving down toward her. They get a little nearer every evening. Venus seems coy, but she isn't. Behind Jupiter is Mars, as if watching the celestial flirtation. These three planets are worth looking at in the hour following sunset—when there is a sunset again.

—Rev. M. B. Ryan of Williamsport, has commenced a series of Sunday evening lectures on "Bible History," covering the whole period from creation to Christ and illustrated by a chart thirty-two long and over four feet wide.

SOMETHING ABOUT FISH.

Isaac Haupt is going to have some fish ponds. He wrote to T. H. Anderson, of Rockville, Indiana, to learn something about the ponds and the way to stock them with fish, and in reply Mr. Anderson gives some interesting facts.

He says that 300 fish would be enough to put in, 100 of each variety, and then to enlarge his pond next year. Carp can be obtained nearer home than where Mr. Anderson lives.

As to buffalo, he would not send enough to stock a pond for the reason that his are too large. "I drew the water off a pond last week and found that this year's hatch (from the 10th of May last) would weigh a pound each. So I could not send more than half a dozen in a barrel of water and they would not spawn under three years old. Fish grow according to the opportunities you give them. I transfered 700 buffaloes last week into a different pond. They were four years old, but were no larger than those of this year's hatch which I have mentioned. The trouble was there were four times too many in one pond. A four-inch carp which I put in a pond two years ago now weighs 8½ pounds. How's that for fish? You see that there is much to learn about fish. It requires a good deal of money, but provides lots of enjoyment."

He offers to send Mr. Haupt a half dozen buffaloes, about the first of March to spawn for young ones, and also, if Mr. Haupt desires them, about fifty small carp and about fifty young croppys.

"I hear grand results from the speckled cat fish I sent out last season. They say they have out grown their carp and are the best fry fish in the world."

Mr. Anderson, to show what little success some people have with fish, says that his brother went to the river last spring and got three cat fish of a certain kind. The three weighed eight pounds. He put them in a pond and when he took them out last week to weigh them he found that they had not increased an ounce in weight.

"Last year," continues Mr. Anderson, "I was fishing one day for a mess of carp in a pond that had no inlet for a fish to enter. It had been filled with water only one year. I caught a cat fish as blue as indigo which weighed two pounds. I never saw a fish like it before. Where that fish came from is a mystery. My theory is that eggs being glutenous, had stuck to some wild bird's foot, carried a long distance and washed off when it reached the pond."

Howard Items.

Harry J. Leathers was home long enoughto vote.

Miss Clara and Eugene Kline will return to their schools on Monday next, the two weeks vacation having expired.

The Howard Cornet band have purchased a new claronet. Blair Hopkins blows on it.

Capt. Henry Holter, John Glenn and Mr. Sanderson came home from Warren county long enough to vote.

On last Tuesday, Philp Confer, of Howard township cast his seventeenth presidential vote. Mr. Confer is the oldest citizen in the township, being in his 88th year.

Miss Mary Wister, one of Howard's fairest, who is attending the Lock Haven normal, was a welcome visitor home last week.

—Among the many magazines and papers which are generally found at an editor's home there are none which delight the feminine members of our household as the "House-keeper," published at Minneapolis, Minn. This magazine is what its name would imply a perfect help in all departments of house-keeping. The cooking recipes are wholesome and toothsome, while the many letters from the sisterhood on all subjects pertaining to home, its arrangements and adornment are both interesting and instructive. No doubt many a housewife has found her labor lightened by copying the method described by some other sister. Each number contains many new and charming designs in fancy work of all descriptions. Also minute instructions in painting. We think the "Housekeeper" deserves a place in every household, and the subscription price being only $1.00 per year, places it within the reach of all. Extremely fine premiums are offered to club raisers

A Meeting of the Borough Council.

On Monday evening it looked as if there would be no meeting of the borough council. When only four members were present it was regarded as an emergency quorum and Ed Brown, Jr., made president pro tem. He soon surrendered however, to President Brew, and then other members entered.

Mr. Baney and Mr. Purceni were present and asked again for water to be extended to their residences on Burnside street. The water committee was instructed to devise the best means possible to comply with the request.

The Street committee reported favorably in reference to another light in the vicinity of the poor house, but not favorably for another light near Robert Hepburn's residence. The east end of Logan street has been made passable.

Messrs McCumpsey and Johnson also presented a petition for boardwalks on East Bishop street leading to new residences owned by them. The attention of the Street committee was directed to it.

Market fees amount to $6.50.

Complaint was made of a nuisance in Pike alley which is daily becoming worse. We believe it is a pig stye.

Two important agreements were read to council. One of them was drawu up consummate the promise already made to Mr. Thomas Shoemaker to permit him to tap the water pipes under conditions exceedingly favorable to the borough without costing the borough a cent. The other was an agreement of which Messrs, Cherry, McKee and Straub are one party and the borough the other party contracting to supply water to the parties first mentioned at their own expense. Both agreements were referred back to the solicitor to make some alterations or additions in the interest of the borough.

Mr. Stover wants the reservoir cleaned this fall.

Bills to the amount of $650 were approved.

Wigton-Wilson.

Miss Mary Louise Wilson, daughter of the late Robert Wilson, was married to Mr. Frank Wigton of Philipsburg yesterday, at noon, at her mother's residence, School Lane and Township Line, Germantown. On account of a recent death in the family no one was present but the immediate relatives. The floral decorations were elaborate. The ceremony took place in the parlor in front of an alter of chrysanthemums, festooned with lillies of the valley, and the officiating clergyman, Rev. Luther E. Albert, D. D, of Trinity Lutheran Church, stood under a canopy of smilax. Here and there about the parlor were huge baskets of cut roses. In the dining room where a wedding dinner was served, a large ball of flowers was suspended from the ceiling and the mantels were banked with cut blooms, All the rooms were festooned with smilax.

The bride wore a long, white satin gown, a long point lace veil and a diamond ornament, the gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of lillies of the valley. There were no bridesmaids or groomsmen, but the bride was attended by Miss Kate W. Ketterlinus, her cousin. —Phila. Press, Nov. 1.

—Remember that all trains stop at and start from the old depot, now located on the ore lot.

—Keep in mind the grand fair to be held in Crider's new building in the near future by the ladies of the M. E. church.

—Forty-two persons sat down to the banquet in Ceader's restaurant on Tuesday night. Major J. L. Spangler presided and the entire affair proved to be most enjoyable.

—The Gazette should spell the plural of bean with a final x and should also explain what it means by heart rendering music, especially when that music is rendered by an orchestra at a ball.

—The banquet served in Ceader's ice cream parlors on Tuesday at 11 o'clock p. m., was very elegant and was highly appreciated by the large number of gentlemen who assembled to partake of it.

—Refreshments of coffee, grapes, rolls, etc., were served to the large number of gentlemen in Harris' hardware store on Tuesday evening. All the election returns were sent at once to the store and proved to be very satisfactory. The lunch was excellent.

—A chicken and waffle supper will be given by the ladies of the Reformed church on Saturday evening next in the stone building next door to Dr. Hale's residence. The ladies have undertaken to raise a fund to buy a new furnace for the church, which is badly needed as the one now in use is giving out. This is a laudable enterprise and everybody should patronize it.
